Dry Ohio Goes Wet.
Learning About Work.
Beer Drives Out Whisky.
This Other Woman.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

OHIO HAS gone wet. Gov. George White, who joins the ranks of Democratic presidential candidates, winning by a wide margin, is very wet.

David S. Ingalls, who won the Distinguished Service Medal after he brought down five enemy planes in the big war, won at the Republican gubernatorial primaries. He is almost as wet as Gov. White.

Nearly all candidates indorsed by the Anti-Saloon League were badly beaten. Ohio, once perfectly dry, appears now to be perfectly wet, a considerable change.

JAMES COX BRADY, JR., 23 years old, who is directing coal shovelers eight hours a day for the Consolidated Gas Company of New York, owns a good deal of that company, and is a director in 50 other companies. He wants to know what it means to work for a living. His new job will tell him. He works 46 hours a week for 50 cents an hour, $23 a week.

Poles, Italians and others that do hard work wonder how he landed the job, and think him lucky. They would wonder more if they knew that the young man is worth $50,000,000.

THE ORIGINAL BRADY, Anthony N., advising this writer to buy a certain stock, said:

"Gov. Flower and I wanted to get young W. R. Hearst interested in that stock, and I waited more than two hours outside of his door to see him, but couldn't get in. I understand he doesn't deal in public utilities. He'd have made ten millions if he'd joined us."

The message that Mr. Brady got from W. R. Hearst, then busy starting his papers in New York, was:

"Tell him I'm much obliged, but I'm interested in newspapers."

GERMANY'S GOVERNMENT monopoly of alcoholic drinks appears to be working well. In the first three months of 1932 the consumption of distilled spirits was only one-half the consumption of last year, and less than one-quarter the consumption of 1928-1929.

To make beer and light wines cheap and whisky dear is the way to discourage whisky and drunkenness. Our method, which forbids light wines and beers, not easily hidden, without interfering with whisky and gin, encourages drunkenness and crime.

THOSE THAT are wet put on their letters stamps reading: "Swat the dry," and drys ask the postoffice to stop this. The government might well stop it. Whether you believe that ardent drys are right or wrong, you know that they are sincere, leaving out the few that practice grafting and bribe-taking in enforcement jobs.

It is a pity that wets and drys should abuse each other, instead of talking things over, and deciding what should be done, like sensible Americans.

A WISE ONE in writing about matrimony says:

"When men express disapproval of their wives' clothes they have ceased to love their mates."

The same thing is told better by Harry Hershfield in his "Harry Hershfield's Jewish Jokes" quoting, it is understood, an anecdote by the ethnologist, Irwin Cobb:

"You look heavy depressed, Volter—what seems to be the aggriwayshun?"

"Mine wife. She's terribly untidy. Her cooking is awful. She don't wash the dishes and the whole day she's playing cards."

"Tell me, Volter—when did you meet this other woman?"

HOW FAR have the mighty fallen. The New York Central Railroad, that has paid dividends without interruption for 70 years, postponed dividend payments six months ago and yesterday definitely abandoned them.

Stock that paid 8 per cent and sold at 260 recently, now pays nothing and is down to 15, a sample of what can happen when your wars are too big, your statesmen sending money to Europe too stupidly generous, your financiers shipping money abroad too stupidly greedy, while your citizens pay no attention to their government.

However, New York Central stockholders should remember that they own rights of way that are priceless, and in time will yield greater returns than the New York Central ever earned in its best days.

NATIONAL COTTON week begins next Monday. The plan is to help cotton growers, and the most important problem is to find new uses for cotton.

Messrs Gottschaldt - Humphrey, of Atlanta, inform the writer that great progress has been made in the manufacture of "bond paper" of high grade, containing 25 per cent of cotton fibre. This bond paper, beautiful in quality, is now made in Georgia at a low price.

ALL JAPANESE troops are recalled from Shanghai. That particular corner of China is at rest, and the League of Nations hails the end of a threat to world peace that has lasted for four months.

That is too much optimism. Japan, retiring from Shanghai, while sending nearly 30,000 fresh troops into Manchuria, is like an active terrier letting go of a cow's hind foot to seize a front leg. The wise Japanese, perhaps, think they have all they can do in Manchuria, with Russia growing restless and sending troops to the border.

REED MAY URGE DRY REPEAL

Senator Reported Planning Anti-Prohibition Talk Before State Committee

United States Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, will advocate repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in an address before the Republican State Committee at Philadelphia Saturday, it was reported here today.

Reed, it was said, refused to discuss his speech, but has decided to end his long silence on the prohibition question in an effort to end "intolerable existing conditions."

DAVIS VICTORY CITED

James J. Davis, junior Senator from Pennsylvania, was renominated April 26, by an overwhelming majority when he ran for the first time as an avowed anti-prohibitionist.

Reed is understood to have believed for a time that the dry law was an economic advantage, but within the last 18 months to have altered this view entirely. He also is understood to be worried over the increasing disrespect of all laws resulting from the widespread disregard of the amendment and its enforcing statutes.

AGAINST SALOON

The Senator, it was said, will not support modification of repeal unless something substantial is provided as a substitute—and that something must be other than the old-fashioned saloon.

His own preference is understood to be a legal dispensary system modeled after either the Quebec or Swedish systems of governmental control.

This, Reed is said to believe, would not only eliminate the lawbreaking and poison liquor evils of bootlegging but provide additional revenue for the government which would check, to some extent at least, the unwelcome specter of increased income taxes and burdensome excise levies.

RAINY WEATHER RELIEF NEAR

A rainy season, which accounted for a rainfall of 2.46 inches since Sunday, was passing today. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman announced. Despite the heavy rainfall, the river stage at Point Bridge showed a drop of half a foot from yesterday and no flood is in sight.

Fair weather is expected tomorrow, although the storm area might remain. No change in temperature was expected. Light showers this afternoon were expected to mark the end of the rainy spell.

Heavy rains at the headwaters of the Allegheny River have passed on, it was said, and a slight rise in the Monongahela during the past two days was offset by the fall in the Allegheny.

AKRON'S MID-AIR RESCUE

Actual Picture of Sailor Swinging at 2,000 Feet

PICTURE OF ROBERT COWART, 19, HANGING FROM AKRON

The thrilling scene at San Diego, Cal., as Sailor Cowart dangled for 95 minutes to a mooring line on the giant U. S. S. Akron until members of the crew, busy fighting wind currents, could be spared to rescue him. Two companions, likewise pulled from the ground, shot down to instant deaths. This is an International News Photograph Service picture, telephoned to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

TAR RELATES RESCUE ON AKRON

'Nerviest' Man in Navy Saw 2 Buddies in Death Dive; Dangled 2,000 Feet in Air

By EDWARD LABOWITCH
International News Service.

CAMP KEARNEY, SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 12.—"I had orders to hold on. So I held on."

His brevity matching his nonchalance, Robert (Bub) Cowart, 19, "nerviest" man in the United States Navy, so disposed today of his feat of hanging for an hour and a half in midair like a plummet on the end of a three-quarter inch rope dangling from the dirigible Akron.

"Bub," a Tulsa (Okla.), farm lad, but eight weeks a sailor, was one of four men carried aloft when the Akron lunged upward during an attempt to moor her yesterday.

Two of the four fell to their death. Another suffered a broken arm.

SWAYS IN AIR

For an hour and 35 minutes Cowart hung on the brink of eternity, swaying pendulum-like as ground currents tossed beneath the 785-foot monarch of the air.

Rescued at last through a hatch in the side of the Akron after being drawn up inch by inch, Cowart remarked:

"Whew! I'm all right, but I wouldn't do that again for a million dollars."

"Bub" was more concerned today in scraping the grease off his uniform with a worn jackknife than he was with the plaudits of his buddies and the cheers of the populace. He said:

"Seeing that the ship was evidently out of control, I was going to let go and drop, but I saw too many of my buddies underneath.

"I was rapidly being carried upward, and when it was clear enough below to jump, I was too high up to jump.

"Hinton and Edsell (who were killed) and Walkup (who was injured) were all on the rope below me. I saw them fall. I felt sick and scared, but I hung on. After they had left the

AGREEMENT NEAR ON U.S. JOB RELIEF

Hoover, Congress Leaders in Parleys; Loans by Dawes Board to States Planned

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—A compromise federal relief program took shape today at conferences revolving about the White House and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and participated in by Republican and Democratic leaders.

As the discussions concluded, President Hoover in a statement revealed the aim as being to combine, simplify and "put into concrete form" various relief proposals. First of all, however, is placed a balancing of the budget.

LEADERS CONSULTED

Senators Watson and Robinson, Republican and Democratic leaders, respectively, were visitors at the White House. Others there during the morning were President Dawes, of the Reconstruction Corporation; Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Secretary Mills.

Declining to discuss details, Watson stated later a "tentative agreement" was in prospect.

Robinson yesterday proposed a $2,000,000,000 bond issue for federal construction and $300,000,000 for assistance to the unemployed. He discussed this with the President.

HOOVER'S PLAN

There is every indication the President desires to work the problem out through the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Corporation.

A non-partisan relief program is expected to pry loose the wedge that will make possible an adjournment of Congress by June 10.

Speaker Garner and Representative Snell, of New York, Republican leader of the House, have been in on the relief consultations, it is understood.

GARNER HINTS ACTION

At his daily conference with newspapermen, Speaker Garner said he had heard of the White House discussion of permitting loans of as much as $300,000,000 from the reconstruction funds. He asserted:

"When the Reconstruction Corporation Act was first drawn, many of the Democrats were in favor of letting the cities and states borrow money.

"Chairman Steagall, of the Banking Committee, proposed it, but the administration so strenuously objected it was stricken out of the bill before the House voted on it.

"But things seem to be changing pretty fast."

SUCCOP HELD 'GOAT' BY KEARNS

Ousted Director 'Persecuted,' Lawyer Tells Jury After Row Over Right to Speak

By M. V. BURGESS
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., May 12. Stricken with a cramp of throat muscles as he began the closing address to the jury in behalf of Mayor Charles H. Kline this afternoon, Attorney Edward G. Coll was unable to proceed and turned the task over to Charles B. Prichard.

Prichard's argument followed a fiery and dramatic address by Col. E. L. Kearns for Bertram L. Succop, co-defendant with Kline on charges of malfeasance, in which Kearns described the deposed supplies director as "the goat of Pittsburgh" and hurled epithets at the prosecution.

Kearns won the right to speak for Succop, his subordinate officer in the World War, only after a bitter row among defense counsel, in which Mayor Kline is said to have participated.

CHARGES POLITICS

Prichard declared that John D. Houston, wholesale grocer, had "started this whole row because he didn't like Succop." He blamed it all on politics.

Coll had finished telling the jury, in opening his address, that former Judge R. M. Galbreath, of Butler, had joined the defense counsel because of his friendship for Mayor Kline and had added, referring to the change of venue:

"The learned Supreme Court has sent us here and we are satisfied to come. These defendants have never had fair treatment."

Coll said to Judge Thomas D. Finletter:

"Your honor will pardon me."

PRICHARD TALKS

Then Coll turned to Prichard and said:

"Maybe you'd better talk, Mr. Prichard."

Judge Finletter said:

"Just wait a little while."

Coll left the courtroom for the anteroom. He kept running his fingers under his collar. He managed to say that he had a cramp in his throat muscles.

Prichard took over the argument to the jury. His first words were:

"I am sorry to lose the help of my colleague in the phase of the case on which he made particular study.

"These counts weer found in Allegheny County in a grand jury room. The finding of this indictment against these defendants was for ulterior purposes.

"When they came here to lay it in your lap, in a jumbled way, all they did was present records. There was no evidence of evil

Pinchot to Cut State Payroll and Expenses

Aid to Universities And Hospitals to Be Slashed

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, May 12.—Gov. Pinchot is planning a drastic reduction in state expenditures beginning with the fiscal year, June 1. Announcement of the cuts is expected within a few days.

These reductions in expenses are something over which the Governor has no control, and for which he is not responsible. They are brought about by falling off in revenue and decision of the Supreme Court on the Talbot bill.

The burden is put on the state fiscal officers to keep expenditures within revenues, but the Governor is acting as co-ordinator, and dealing with the subject of financial curtailment in the departments in which he exercises supervision.

CONDITIONS BLAMED

While announcement of the cuts will be made through the Governor's aides, it is presumed, they will be only spokesmen of a condition.

According to reliable information, the curtailment in state expenditure will include:

A 30 per cent reduction in the allocations of state-aided educational universities, including the University of Pittsburgh, University of Pennsylvania, Penn State and Temple.

A severe reduction in the ap-

Smugglers Believed Swept Over Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 12.—(AP.)—United States border patrolmen reported last night their belief that two men whom they had surprised landing aliens on the American side had been swept to death over Niagara Falls.

The officers said the men had shoved off in a rowboat into the rapids. A third smuggler, they reported, escaped into American territory. Two aliens, described as John Wordeg, 31, and Elsa Illoman, 36 of Toronto, were arrested.

Rain Keeps Pirates Idle

Rain and wet grounds prevented the opening battle of the three-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants scheduled at Forbes Field this afternoon. The postponement was the third in three days for the Pirates.

The postponed contest will be played off as part of a double-header on July 7.

Man Dies in Electric Chair He Constructed

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP.)—Philip Harris, 40, an unemployed ironmonger, yesterday ended his life in a crude electric chair of his own construction.

A transformer attached to an electric light socket provided the current. Harris had run wires to two safety razor blades strapped to his chest with a leather belt. His landlady found him, half tumbled from the chair, dead.

HELD UP NEAR BRADDOCK JAIL

In an office building adjoining the Braddock police and fire station, two robbers today held up E. S. Mariacher, 28, branch manager of the Baltimore Life Insurance Company. They fled with $300, leaving Mariacher bound in a private room, on the second floor of 731 Braddock avenue.

Mariacher, found by J. W. Ross, 25, a Braddock agent, an hour later, was released. The victim told police that returning from a restaurant at 11 o'clock he was attacked by two men as he unlocked his office. One of the men felled him with a blow and then took an envelope containing $300.

Mariacher told police a dozen agents make weekly payments on Thursday, and the robbers evidently knew of teis custom.

HARRISBURG, May 12.—(AP.)—Lee A. McCracken, of Oil City, was appointed today by Gov. Pinchot as president judge of Venango County. He succeeds Judge William Parker, whom the Governor recently named to the Superior Court.

City-County Time Haywire; 62 Clocks, One Attendant

City-County Building clocks went "haywire" today and the reason was—one electrician and 62 clocks.

Care of the clocks is a joint city-county proposition, the city looking after them one year and the county the next. This is the county's year. County Commissioners recently furloughed all but one master electrician.

At the office of the Bureau of City Property it was revealed that the clocks, operated by batteries, need the attention of an electrician, but 62 clocks all clamoring for attention at the same time makes it quite a job.

Meantime city-county employes probably will carry their own time.

Pope Calls for Courage In Present Situation

VATICAN CITY, May 12.—(AP.)—What the world needs to lift itself out of the economic depression is courage, Pope Pius told Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, of San Francisco, today.

The Pontiff said after the archbishop had reviewed the situation in the United States:

"If all the nations have courage, this crisis will be overcome."

Archbishop Hanna said the Pope displayed a keen knowledge of world conditions, asking numerous questions during the 15 minutes of the audience. Their conversation was in Italian, a language which the archbishop speaks fluently, having spent his youth in Rome.

Had Full Confidence in Their Integrity, He Says; Defends Council's Action

BUTLER, Pa., May 12.—Mayor Kline of Pittsburgh has had his day in court. For hours yesterday he told on the witness stand—through direct examination by his counsel, Charles Prichard—of his multifarious duties as Mayor, of his implicit trust in his department heads in making contracts and of his relief from responsibility in such contracts.

Then through Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed he endured a cross-examination, which among other things developed that the Mayor had forgotten what were the "visible irregularities" for which he dismissed Bertram L. Succop co-defendant as director of the Department of Supplies. He also had forgotten another item or two.

Picturing himself as the chief executive of a great city who has been overwhelmed with detail, Kline described the duties of his office.

The Mayor said that the City Solicitor has informed him that under the act of 1911 he has been relieved of the responsibility of letting contracts and that his duty now is simply to sign his name and affix the official seal of the city. Kline declared he has been proceeding with that idea in mind.

KLINE CROSS-EXAMINED

Attorney Reed conducted the cross-examination of the Mayor.

Q.—Those relief duties that you spoke of. Did they not come up mostly after the acts complained of in this indictment?

A.—Yes.

Q.—There was no attempt made in the act of 1911 to relieve the Mayor of the responsibility of letting contracts was there?

A.—My city solicitor says so. Since the passage of this act he thinks my duty is simply to sign my name to the contracts and affix the official seal of the city.

Q.—Have you proceeded with this idea in mind?

A.—I have to follow the advice of my solicitor.

Q.—When you were discussing with Succop the furniture contract, did you ask him anything about the responsibility of the Puffinburg company?

A.—Pardon, Mr. Reed, you are testifying.

CONFERRED WITH SUCCOP

Q.—You said you discussed it for three hours with Succop and then wrote 'OK CHK' on the furniture contract?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Was it called to your attention that Horne's and Kaufmann's were low bidders?

A.—I do not believe I noted that.

Q.—How long have you known Mr. Sansom?

A.—For a number of years.

Q.—Did you know he was a member of the Puffinburg firm?

A.—Not until I was indicted.

Q.—Did you get Mr. Rose's letter saying Pittsburgh Coal Company was low bidder on coal?

A.—Yes.

Q.—You can see that Pittsburgh Coal was lowest bidder on all stations?

A.—Yes, sir.

FAITH IN ADVISORS

Q.—So you let the contract elsewhere?

Q.—Yes, sir; for reasons I have explained. I did not know anything about the formula. I had faith in the men who advised me. Mr. Lamphier was one of these. Not being a technical man, I must take my advice from the man at the head of his line.

Q.—Did you ask Succop whether this Puffinburg company was responsible?

A.—Succop told me it was.

Q.—Did you ever answer the Pittsburgh Coal Company letter?

A.—No.

Q.—That is not then one of the 1,000 letters you answer a month?

A.—No.

Q.—Do you know the part of the Act of 1911 which forbids Council to make purchases?

A.—I take my law from the law department. He told me Council had a right to pass a resolution authorizing purchase.

'OK' NOT AN O. K.

The Mayor denies when he put on 'OK CHK' on an ordinance that he approved it.

Some confusion appeared from the Mayor's testimony.

He testified that one of the reasons these three trucks were purchased was for standardization. He had previously testified that Mr. Neely suggested purchase of Brockways for standardization although Brockway was not among these three.

Q.—Did Controller Evans ever complain to you of the manner in which city contracts were let?

A.—I don't know that. I don't remember talking with him at all. He might talk to me Monday about something and I wouldn't remember it Saturday night.

Q.—What did you mean by 'visible irregularities' in your letter to Council in which you dismissed Succop?

A.—I couldn't tell now what all of them were. I don't have any recollection now. Not specifically.

HALTED BY JUDGE

Q.—After you came back from being knighted by Mussolini you decided to fit up your office royally?

A.—I beg your pardon?

Judge Finletter—Never mind that.

Q.—When did you decide to fix up your office?

A.—I never decided.

Q.—What happened in the case of the first rug? Were you oversold on it?

A.—How do you mean?

A.—Yes.

Q.—And then you went back for another of the same kind, did you?

A.—Yes, just the same way.

Q.—When you sent the resolution to Council you did not say the rug had been bought, did you?

A.—Mr. Reed, what kind of a letter would that be?

Q.—You heard Mr. Herron and English testify that they told you when you got the rug to send the bill?

A.—He did not say that.

Q.—In both cases you did not order a rug?

A.—I did not.

IGNORANT OF TIRES

Q.—Do you know anything about buying tires?

A.—No.

Q.—You were not consulted about the tires?

A.—No.

Q.—Where you consulted about any purchases that came under the head of informal contracts?

A.—No.

After Kline left the stand, Neely, of the Highways and Sewers Department, told of his recommendations on trucks. He became tangled in his testimony, at first saying that he was in favor of specializing on, or standardizing on Sterling trucks. Reed asked him why he did not do it. Then he made him add up the price of three Sterlings and subtracted the used car allowance. The total appropriation for the three trucks was $17,100. Reed made Neely admit that the three Sterlings could have been bought for $17,094. Neely than changed his story. He said:

"Just a minute. When I said I would purchase three of them, there was a question in my mind whether the Sterling was heavy enough for the job. I wanted to purchase one of them to determine whether that condition was a fallacy or a fact. I did not want to purchase three Sterlings."

PARKS TO HAVE EIGHT STANDS

Bids will be opened May 24 for the concessions in the county parks. Property and Supplies Director Ray Sprigle presented the specifications to the County Commissioners yesterday.

They provide for five concessions in South and three in North Park. Pop, ice cream cones and coffee are to be sold for a nickel and sandwiches for 10, 15 and 25 cents. No squawkers, rattlers or noise producing devices will be sold. The county will supply eight cashiers who will sell tickets for the concessions.

No money will be handled at the stands and the operators will be paid once a week, sharing the cashier's receipts on a 50-50 basis. No slot machines or coin devices will be permitted.

Masons Dedicate Temple To Washington in Rain

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 12.—(AP.)—Undaunted by pelting rain, thousands of Masons marched up Shooters Hill today for the dedication of the granite temple to George Washington, the Mason.

It was raining when the military section of the parade, headed by Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, former commandant of the Marine Corps, began the March through this historic town, replete with traditions of Washington.

The downpour increased as the Masonic units fell in line. Colors on gorgeous uniforms began to merge, but the procession went through Alexandria with bands playing.

For 62 years America's Masons have been building the pillared granite memorial, crowned by an angular seven-story tower, symbolic of the lighthouse of Egypt. It stands atop Shooters Hill, once owned by Washington and favored by Jefferson and Madison as the site for the national capitol.

President Hoover, members of his cabinet, diplomats, senators and representatives were among the thousands drawn to witness the symbolic ceremonies.

Melvin M. Johnson, past grand master of Massachusetts Masons, spoke the dedicatory address, crediting to Freemasonry a potent influence in the fashioning of this nation's destinies and its creation.

Kearns Terms Succop 'Goat' In Case After Attorneys Row Over Making Address

ACCUSES HOUSTON

"Mr. Houston, who told you his company is responsible, also interjected an insinuation that showed his personal feeling. Houston started this because he did not like Bert Succop. Certain people saw an opportunity to work out a political scheme. These counts were broadcast throughout the city and state, where ever there were persons interested in traducing the Mayor.

"They admit they charged the Mayor and Succop, hero of the battlefields of France, with seven counts they could not prove.

It should be a pleasure for you to send Mayor Kline and Bertram L. Succop back to Pittsburgh exonerated.

Kearns, in his address, walked dramatically back and forth before the jury, at one time waving the broken Mayview chair and declaring Succop had acted "like a man" in assuming responsibility for purchases.

CHARGES PERSECUTION

He shouted:

"Bert Succop is the goat of Pittsburgh."

"I say (waving the broken chair) it's a buy for durability and service."

"The persecution of Succop is like that of Jesus Christ. Succop got the same treatment as Socrates. Did they have anything on Socrates?"

"Bert Succop is assuming responsibility for the purchase of these goods like a man. He would do it over again."

PURSUED BY 'BLOODHOUNDS'

"They pursued him with their bloodhounds."

"Succop assumes responsibility for buying Walsh's auto. Convict him for that if you will."

"They had a fine case in the newspapers, but weren't they a fine bunch of mutts in the court of record?"

"The indictment of Succop was not in good faith and that of Mayor Kline was to discredit him in a campaign so short he could not answer. These are the tactics of the so-called reformers."

KLINE JOINS ROW

The argument among the defense counsel and their clients as to who was to make the plea for Succop, waxed long and hot, according to reports, and threatened to disrupt the defense plans at the last moment.

Kline held out for Prichard or former Judge Galbreath, of Butler, to make the closing defense arguments. Prichard suggested his colleague, Coll, and apparently was disgusted when Kearns began to talk, as he left the court room. Kearns, singlehanded fought for the right to speak for Succop and won.

ALONE IN CASE

After emerging from a conference with other defense attorneys, Kearns declared:

"I am counsel of record for Succop. If the Lord is not with me, I am alone in the case."

Kearns began by defining the meaning of malfeasance, discussing the word "wilful." He declared that while in the ordinary sense it means "obstinate" or with tenacity and resolution, in the legal sense it means "with evil intent."

'TRICK' INDICTMENT

Taking up the first count in the indictment against Succop, Kearns declared:

"Bert Succop is the goat of Pittsburgh.

"If there is one redeeming feature to the City of Pittsburgh it is Mayview; Mayview with its blind, lame and halt; Mayview with its Kline infirmary.

"Bert Succop goes out there to Mayview and assumes the white man's burden. Puffinburg was sent out there through Alderdice and conferred with Mrs. Rauh and the committee. They bought good furniture. It was not purchased at the five-and-ten-cent store.

"They talk of trick specifications, but I says here is a trick indictment."

Kearns strode up and down the courtroom, dramatically gesticulating to lend emphasis to his argument. He grabbed one of the bentwood chairs, which was broken by Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent of Mayview, and waved it before the jury. Its broken leg swung loosely back and forth. Said Kearns:

"I say, it's a buy for durability and service."

LIKENED TO SOCRATES

Kearns compared the persecution of Succop to that of Jesus Christ. He added:

"Succop got about the same treatment in this case that Socrates got. Did they have anything on Socrates?

"When these trucks were purchased from Henry Braun, Henry Oliver Evans—sitting right over there—was city controller."

Kearns pounded on the jury rail and shouted. A six-foot, 200-pounder he appeared to be trying to shake the courtroom.

Kearns took up the meat counts. He shouted:

"Who buys the steaks? These meats are ordered by the dieticians of the three hospitals and Col. Succop never ordered them. Now they say he ought to go to jail. He might go to jail for being in politics in Pittsburgh, but not on that count.

"Bert Succop is assuming responsibility for the purchase of $11,000 worth of goods from the Parke Company like a man. If he had it to do over he would do it again."

SUCCOP SHUNS PRAISE

Col. Succop was not in the courtroom during Kearns' address. He explained that he disliked hearing anyone sing his praises. Mayor Kline left the courtroom before Kearns began, but returned and listened from the rear of the courtroom.

"When they went out to Mayview, with their snooping outfit (citizens investigators), they found the canned goods in the warehouse.

"I am not apologizing for that old City Council in Pittsburgh. It's a good one.

"They pursued him (Succop) with their bloodhounds. They had a fine case in the papers. But were they not a fine bunch of mutts in the court of record! They yelled about how much graft they would show, but did they show it when they got before a stenographer! If Bert Succop even got dog meat, his own private attorney does not know about it."

TAKES UP WALSH CAR

On the purchase of the Packard car for Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh, Kearns said:

"Pittsburgh has one of the finest police departments in the world.

"Succop assumes responsibility for buying that auto. If you want to find him guilty for doing that, go ahead and do it."

REBUTTAL WITNESSES

The commonwealth rested shortly after court opened this morning, with the calling of five rebuttal witnesses who testified briefly.

Prichard announced he had no more witnesses for the defense and the testimony was ended.

With the testimony of Mayor Kline in his own defense yesterday, the high spot of the trial, little remained for presentation to the jury today in the way of evidence.

Frank Ritz, county detective, was called by Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed at the opening of court this morning in rebuttal. Ritz testified he had attempted to summon A. Nathanson in whose name the city is alleged to have bought supplies from Marcus & Co. after that company had been barred from receiving city contracts, but that Nathanson was ill at his home in New Kensington.

R. F. Brown, of the Quaker City Rubber Company, whose bids, at times though lower, were rejected by the city, testified he never had received any complaint regarding the quality of fire hose which his company supplied the city.

E. Kress, Jr., and H. E. Kimberly, photographer, described the Kress Brothers auto tire plant, and W. C. Blake testified for the United States Rubber Company.

line, I found I was standing on the top wooden toggie in the spider line and was grasping the rope with both hands. I straddled the toggle and as the rope was greasy and slippery, I tied a couple of bowline knots around my waist.

"Several times the wind blew me back and forth underneath the Akron's gondolas.

"I didn't know whether the rope would hold, but I didn't have much time to think about that. I was too busy wondering what would happen next.

"I'm sure glad I made it. You know I want to win the all-Navy welterweight boxing championship."

ASKS FOR FOOD

Drawn through the hatch of the Akron, he was offered some aromatic spirits of ammonia. He inquired:

"What do I need that for? but I'd like something to eat."

Lieut. Com. C. E. Rosendahl commanding officer of the Akron, said:

"He was the nerviest man I've ever seen. We made the rescue at an altitude of about 2,000 feet directly above the mooring mast.

"When we saw Cowart clinging to the line below us, it looked as if he had become fouled in the line and was unable to free himself. We first planned to bring the Akron as near earth as possible so that he could jump to a fire net below, but feared the man might be unconscious and abandoned that plan.

"We rigged up a hand-driven winch and slowly brought him upward. When we got him within a few feet of the nose we let down a hatch and it was an easy matter to bring him in.

"But I've never seen such nerve in all my life."

propriations to state-aided hospitals, including Allegheny General Hospital and similar institutions in Pittsburgh.

Lessened allotments from the mothers' assistance fund.

Elimination of six state teachers' colleges, to be officially named later.

Restriction of the state road building program because of an expected deficit of $20,000,000 in the highway fund, actual revenues falling that sum under estimates upon which the last Legislature made appropriations for the current biennium, now nearly half over.

Wholesale discharges of personnel in many of the departments under administration control, with some possible salary readjustments through reclassification of employes and a reduction in their salaries.

Under the law the Governor cannot reduce the activities of departments provided for in the general appropriation bill of the last Legislature, but no such prohibition is raised against other agencies, such as hospitals, mothers' assistance, the universities and the Greater Pennsylvania Commission, for which appropriations were made through separate bills.

The various departments of the state government appropriated for in the general bill can be dealt with through reduction in personnel only, the Governor not having the authority to eliminate any of the services provided.

SERIOUS EMERGENCY

The Governor and his associates take the position that the state is confronted with a serious financial emergency. Taxes have fallen far below estimates and readjustments are imperative unless new sources of revenue are found, an impossibility unless there is a special session of the Legislature.

It is admitted on Capitol Hill that the slicing of allocations for the fiscal year is certain to bring angry protests, especially with respect to action against hospitals and mothers' assistance. But it is held that nothing else can be done, especially as the Supreme Court has held that the $10,000,000 for relief authorized under the Talbot bill is a first charge on state revenue.

DANGEROUS SITUATION

The situation in the Highway Department is regarded as extremely serious. Gasoline and motor license taxes, already below expectancy based on Pinchot estimates before the last Legislature, are continuing to lag, and the difference will be $20,000,000 before the expiration of the biennium. Curtailment of the road program will add to the unemployment situation, growing constantly worse, according to figures for the month of March, just released by the Department of Labor and Industry.

GOVERNOR WORRIED

The atmosphere about the Capitol is tense.

When the Governor officially reveals the situation, it is expected he will seize the opportunity to invite an extra session, though it is known Dr. [illegible] has been advising his superiors against again calling the Legislature.

As a condition to such a session and the finding of money for these services, the Governor, if he calls the members back, is expected to demand that in addition there shall be found a further revenue for unemployment relief to cope with the growing emergency.

VETO CREATES TARIFF ISSUE

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(INS.)—The tariff issue today was definitely projected into the national campaign as a result of President Hoover's veto of the Democratic tariff bill.

Spokesmen for both Republican and Democratic parties in the House, which failed to override the veto, declared their willingness to go before the voters on the issue.

The vetoed bill, which House passed, 214 to 187, provided for an international conference to lower tariff barriers, stripped the President of tariff-making power under the flexible provisions. The House voted, 178 to 166, to override the veto, but the efforts lacked a two-thirds vote.

Protests on Ritual Changes Shower M. E. Delegates

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 12.—(AP.)—A widespread protest from Methodism against proposed changes in the church ritual began to manifest itself today. Delegates to the Methodist Episcopal general conference received communications from all over the country opposing any alteration.

The protests centered on proposals to eliminate the phrase, "with my worldly goods I thee endow," from the marriage service and to substitute another expression in the burial services for "ashes to ashes, dust to dust."

Opponents of the changes say they want to preserve "the beauty and significance of the ancient forms of service."

After three and one-half hours of debate, the conference voted the abolition of three domestic and four foreign episcopal areas in the interest of economy and efficiency.

The domestic areas eliminated were Buffalo, Indianapolis and Helena, Mont. Foreign areas eliminated were Paris, France; Korea, Peiping and Calcutta.

MARGARET SANGER RENEWS SENATE BIRTH CONTROL PLEA

URGES SUPPORT OF HATFIELD MEASURE

Labor Federation Refuses Indorsement Because of Opposition by Church

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(AP.)—Margaret Sanger, internationally known birth control advocate, today renewed her battle against laws prohibiting dissemination of such information.

Appearing before a Senate judiciary sub-committee, she urged approval of the bill by Senator Hatfield (Rep.), West Virginia, to exempt physicians, hospitals, licensed clinics and others in the medical fraternity from existing bans.

AFFECTS MILLIONS

The bill, she said, directly affects the health, happiness and future development" of 25,000,000 women and the future lives of 45,000,000 children. She added:

"The bill does not compel anyone to obtain knowledge, simply gives the right to physicians to obtain up-to-date information themselves and allows them to advise it when it is needed."

She termed the bill 'reasonable, conservative and constructive,' and said "Its passage will directly effect the quality of future generations who shall inhabit this land." She continued:

"These laws we are trying to amend are as archaic as they are ridiculous. They are relics of an outworn concept of morality which tries to make people moral by legislating against knowledge."

OPPOSED TO LABOR

Edward F. McGrady, of the American Federation of Labor, presented a statement saying William Green, president of the federation, "does not feel that we can support this bill, nor do we believe that we will be able to support any bill that leaders of the church denounce as conducive to bad morals and that does not receive the support of the medical profession of our country."

Senator Hatfield, a physician, said the legislation "has a bold and spartan-like purpose to prevent mental delinquency so far as it is humanly possible."

Prof. Henry P. Fairchild, of New York City, told the committee the "main justification of the birth control movement is the human reaso nand intelligence."

LEAGUE AGAIN BEFORE SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(INS.)—A modified form of American adherence to the League Court, conditioned upon European acceptance of the old fifth reservation, was favorably reported today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The vote was 11 to 9, with Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, favoring the cause.

The old fifth reservation blocked American adherence to the court in 1926 when European signatories refused to accept it. The identical terms were written into the present resolution of adherence by the Foreign Relations Committee before reporting it to the Senate.

The old fifth reservation prohibits the court from rendering any advisory opinion on any subject in which "the United States has or claims an interest."

SCORES INJURED AT DOUMER FUNERAL

Soldiers Restore Order Among 500,000; Woman Shouts 'Down With Russia'

International News Service.

PARIS, May 12.—A crowd of half a million people which had gathered in the square in front of the Pantheon to hear funeral services for President Doumer became unruly and got out of control of police today.

Four children were trampled and scores swooned as people tried to get within hearing distance of the Pantheon steps and the loud speakers. There were numerous fist fights.

As the body of the slain president arrived at the pantheon a woman shouted:

"Down with Russia!"

The crowd immediately took up the cry, whereupon police rushed in and seized the leader of the group.

Finally the Tank Corps, without their tanks, were called out to control the crowd.

TARDIEU QUIETS CROWD

The unruliness was kept up until Premier Andre Tardieu mounted the Pantheon steps to deliver the nation's official eulogy, whereupon the crowd quieted and listened attentively.

Royalty and commoners alike bowed in homage at the great national funeral tendered the beloved president who was assassinated last Friday.

A cortege three miles long accompanied M. Doumer's body as it was taken from the Elysee Palace, where it has lain in state, to the Cathedral of Notre Dame, where a religious service was held under the direction of Cardinal Verdier, archbishop of Paris.

Then the body was taken in a private auto hearse to the Vaugirard Cemetery, where Doumer was laid to rest beside the four sons he gave to France in the World War.

Also buried in this cemetery are Francois Sadi Carnot, France's only other assassinated President, over whose remains Doumer himself delivered the funeral oration many years ago; Voltaire, Zola and Victor Hugo.

ROYALTY MARCHES

In the long procession to the church were King Albert of Belgium, dressed simply in khaki; the Prince of Wales, dressed brilliantly in his grenadier-guard uniform; Prince Paul of Jugoslavia, in a plumed hat, green tunic and crimson trousers, and the Emperor of Annam, in full dress.

Albert Lebrun, M. Doumer's successor and France's chief mourner, was alone in the procession. He wore full dress, upon which were pinned his medals.

American Ambassador Walter E. Edge, also in full dress, acting as ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the United States, represented President Hoover.

MEANS BUILDS HOAX DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(INS.)—Insisting he had negotiated with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby for Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, who charges him with mulcting her of $104,000, Gaston B. Means was at liberty under bond of $50,000 today in spite of protests of District Attorney Leo A. Rover.

He will be arraigned tomorrow on two indictments charging larceny after trust of $100,000 and embezzlement of an additional $4,000.

Means indicated he will contend Mrs. McLean's legal recourse rests in the civil, and not the criminal courts. Surveying a cracked safe and a wrecked doll house at his Chevy Chase home, he lost his composure momentarily and shouted:

"What is this anyway? A civil case or a criminal case? Is the Department of Justice a collection agency for Mrs. McLean?"

He declined to say what became of the $100,000 given him by Mrs. McLean in the presence of the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, a Catholic priest, saying it would reveal his defense. At the same time Means denied stories he had given the money to a mysterious "No. 11."

Doumer Insurance Policy Investigated

LONDON, May 12.—(INS.)—Underwriters are investigating an insurance policy of £37,000 taken out in London by a Dutch firm 11 months ago on the life of Paul Doumer, assassinated President of France, the Daily Telegraph said today.

The investigators were particularly interested, the Telegraph said, in the fact the policy specifically covered the possibility of assassination, and benefited only the firm and nine relatives of M. Doumer.

DEATH OF BOY TO BE PROBED

Although heart trouble was indicated today as the cause of death of Andrew Allas, 16, of 2004 Whitaker lane, Munhall, Coroner W. J. McGregor planned to confer with insurance company representatives and the boy's physician as to the result of an autopsy made yesterday, a month after death.

It was reported young Allas had been insured heavily. A brother caused the exhumation.

Dr. Charles C. Huff, 311 Ninth avenue, Homestead, attended the boy. He said he was puzzled as to the cause of death, having been called into the case only four days before young Allas died, last April 12. Dr. Duff also attended another brother, Steve, 14, who died last December 5, presumably from injuries received in a football game.

MELLON WEARS TROUSERS AT ROYAL COURT

Rejects Silk Breeches Which Brought Harvey Ridicule; 13 U. S. Women Presented

LONDON, May 12.—(AP.)—Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon established himself definitely last night as of the Dawes trousers persuasion, rather than the Harvey breeches cult, in the matter of costume when one goes to court.

The ambassador appeared in plain republican pantaloons, eschewing the silk breeches which are the ordinary court mode. In this he followed the precedent set by his unconventional predecessor, former Ambassador Charles G. Dawes.

The late George Harvey, when he was ambassador at London, wore breeches and was widely lampooned for it in the United States.

13 WOMEN BOW

Thirteen American women today has achieved the distinction of being presented to the King and Queen at the royal court, and eight others were aflutter with the prospect of gaining a similar honor at the second court of the season tonight.

The first 13 were presented last night, after the usual hours of waiting in the traffic jam before Buckingham Palace, which provides an annual free show for London crowds.

As they sat in their limousines, awaiting their turn to enter the palace, they played cards, drank tea and ate sandwiches, while the cockneys, the ladies from Picadilly, and others in the huge crowd jammed so close to the car windows that they left the imprints of their noses on the glass.

One man lifted his wife above the heads of the crowd so she might see a particularly impressive dowager. The wife's loud comment was:

"But she's so fat!"

SMILE AT SPECTATORS

Most of those inside the automobiles, the flower of British society, took it good-naturedly and grinned. Finally the palace was reached and the presentations took place. They lasted only half a minute for each, just long enough for the name to be called out in stentorian tones by the red-coated, be-medalled Lord Chamberlin and to make the curtesy to their majesties which the debutantes and matrons had practiced for weeks.

The nine Americans who will be presented tonight are: Mrs. E. Campion Acheson, Jr., Middletown, Conn.; Miss Winifred Holt Bloodgood, Baltimore; Mrs. James Herbert Boone, New York; Mrs. Russell M. Brooks, Salem, Ore.; Mrs. William Lindsey, Boston; Mrs. Rufus Graves Mather, Gibson Island, Md.; Miss Catherine McAndrews, Owatonna, Minn., Miss Daphne Prizer, of New York, and Miss Ella Uppercu, of New York.

'LOVE SLAVERY' TRIAL OPENS

By DAVID P. SENTNER

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The bizarre tale of a wealthy divorcee mother financing her son and a pretty dance-hall girl off on a trip to Bermuda was told to a jury today at the "love slavery" trial of a $250,000 suit brought by Mrs. Gerteress O'Connor, of Boston, against Mrs. Selma C. Young and her son, Otto Heyworth.

Mrs. O'Connor brought the action in behalf of her daughter, Mona, whose love is alleged to have been purchased for gold and gifts.

Counsel for Mrs. O'Connor declared that it all began when Otto, twice married, met Mona in a New York dance hall, and that Mrs. Young abetted her son in abducting Mona because she wanted him to have the companionship of a pure young girl.

Countering this charge, attorneys for Heyworth, asserted:

"The girl was his willing companion. Nothing was done about it until Otto's bankroll gave out. Furthermore, we will show that this girl's mother was delighted that her daughter had a millionaire boy friend."

John C. Dancy, executive secretary Detroit Urban League, declared racial difficulties have been lessened explaining present conditions have forced the laboring class to feel a kinship. The Negro, while composing 10 per cent of the population equals 25 per cent of the unemployed and becomes the largest class of sufferers, according to Alonzo C. 'Swat the Dry' Stamp Postal Ban Asked

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP.)—Prohibitionists have asked postal authorities to ban "Swat the Dry" stamps from the mails.

Fred A. Victor, superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, told the Kings County W. C. T. U. he had written to President Hoover, objecting to a proposal by anti-prohibitionists to circulate the stamps through the mail. He said the protest had been referred to the Postmaster General.

The stamps, which it has been proposed to sell to raise a $5,000,000 fund to fight prohibition, carry pictures of insects, over which is poised a "swatter" labelled "votes."

The basis of the protest lies in the suggestion of violence in the phrase, "Swat the Dry."

The Making of an American
JOHN NANCE GARNER

By ELSIE ROBINSON

LOVE—How many times has its story been told in terms of moonlight and roses . . . dew spangled daisies and honey sweet moons . . . singing fountains . . . nightingales and mandolins?

But who has told the story of love in a frontier town . . . red rutted streets, ankle deep in dust . . . horses sweat dusty on their flanks, tied in a pawing, nodding row before the country store . . . white baddle of sun blasted shacks, their rickety doors agape on endless prairie.

Many a poem about the beauty of love moving silken and sumptuous, through scented romance—

But what of the quiet courage and constancy of a love that follows on through loneliness, discouragement, hardship and poverty?

Here is the story of a love like that . . . the simple, steadfast love of two plain people who sang no songs and hung no wreaths but took each other, "for better or worse," wherever the trail might lead.

CHAPTER FOUR

"WHITHER THOU GOEST I WILL GO—"

He was on his way. And he had gotten this far—

Twenty years old. A lawyer—of sorts. A citizen and a county attorney by grace of a Texas dispensation and his own lively tongue. But still a penniless kid—as green as grass.

But he could fight. And he could grin. And he knew a lot about men.

Fishing, fighting, fooling around with country kids . . . yarning in bung houses . . . swinging a lasso rope in roundups . . . sitting in on poker games back of the drug store . . . playing semi-pro baseball . . . and then those months of study in a shabby law office, watching shrewdly the shenanigans of law as-is . . . John Nance Garner had learned about men from all that.

Wrangling cattle—wrangling humans—there wasn't such a great difference. The main thing was to know what you wanted and get going.

Well, he knew what he wanted. He wanted people. People and power. They were all that counted. Money and fame and the thrills they brought with them—they didn't matter to him then—they were never to matter.

Sought Power
Garner Knew What He Wanted and Got It

People and power—that was what he was after. And he'd made his start. But he still had plenty of scrap ahead—

There was that cough. It had bothered him for years. For two more years in the heavy atmosphere of the lower country, he stuck it out. Then—when even his grit couldn't conquer it—he pulled up stakes and headed into the uplands of Uvalde County—where the air flowed, hot and bubble bright, over endless acres of sage and chaparral.

There he hung out his shingle and collected his first partner. His partner was another Red River youngster, Tully Fuller, not quite as young, but fully as green as himself. What they lacked in experience, however, they made up in nerve.

Uvalde had 3,000 citizens—not counting the dawgs. To young Jack Garner that meant practically 3,000 prospective clients—every citizen being good for at least one rumpus, according to his way of reasoning. No one need starve, human nature being what it was. And, in case human nature proved ornery and refused to provide legal complications, it could always be poked up.

One way to poke 'em up was to run a newspaper. There was a small weekly paper for sale—the Uvalde Leader. On the month he hung out his shingle he also accumulated that paper and began, as lawyer and editor, to get them both coming and going.

And now are you seeing the classical American picture of a rising young lawyer shedding his cowboy mannerisms, acquiring the culture of a white collar autocrat? Then you're seeing wrong. He was rising all right. Like sour dough—all over the place! And he was, in his own, unique manner, becoming an autocrat. But he was still the sun-blistered, sand beaten, tobacco chawin', poker playing, sunnuvagun the other cowhands hailed as Cactus Bill.

Poker Player
Pastime for Some, But He Had Technique

In fact, poker playing was one of the best things he did. Some might call it a pastime . . . but it looked more like a technique. Certain envious parties remarked that what he couldn't collect in a justice court or with a side-swiping editorial, he managed to rake in with a royal flush. Or bluff through a couple of deuces.

That poker-face grin of his . . . he was cashing in on it now. "Cactus Bill"—and how! And look out for those stickers!

He was 24. He was 25. He had left the cough behind. He had left the empty pocket behind. He was still living on four bits a day—more or less. But he had stock in a bank and his fists on some likely real estate. There wasn't anything on earth short of his own bark teeth that he couldn't or didn't trade for a profit.

Then, to make the prospect more pleasing, they began to suggest him for the county judgeship. Yes, he certainly was holding winning hands. But he still didn't have a full house.

JOHN NANCE GARNER

Was he thinking about that? No one knew what he was thinking. No one had ever known what lay behind that grin. Those shrewd blue eyes that looked so deeply into the nature of other men—did they sometimes contemplate his own secret loneliness and bewilderment as he bucked his stubborn head against one obstacle after another? He had a score of friends who were willing to sit in on any poker game with him. Did he sometimes wish that he had someone who would sit in with him on the game of life?

Maybe yes. Maybe no. He kept his own council. Which in itself, isn't such a bad recommendation for a young man of 25.

Meantime, though he hadn't done any trading in romance, he wasn't passing up any other bets.

Neither was a certain young orphan girl, living down the river in the same county.

Her name was Etty Rheiner. She was short and slight and spunky. She had a tiny, quick-bending waist and little, quick-stepping feet, and a heart-shaped face framed in brown hair, which she wore in the bangs and buns of the '80s.

30,000 Acres
Girl and Brother Ran Vast Cattle Estate

She and her brother owned a 30,000-acre ranch. Most of the time the girl ran the place alone, riding the range with her soft little chin uptilted in the air and her round eyes crinkled against the booming blaze of sun.

Indian fires had signalled on those acres not so long before. Indian feet had skulked around the corral. Coming home one night, her father had stumbled over a dead herder, his skull gleaming white through the bloody puddle of his stripped scalp.

She was only three then. But she obeyed when her father, rushing her to safety, told her to make no sound. The little mouth shut firmly. It had stayed shut firmly ever since, against all whimpering.

Reason for whimpering there must have been, many a time. The loneliness, discipline, responsibility and downright hard labor of running that vast place—it might have dismayed and discouraged a mature man. But it didn't dismay or discourage Etty Rheiner.

She was everywhere—hanging fresh curtains in the big white plastered house with its hand-hewn cedar beams, blackened by age . . . putting up plum jam in the big, cool kitchen, with the sunlight falling in a golden pool about her little feet . . . out in the bawling, shouting, dust clouded corrals where the young calves were being branded . . . down in the bottom lands where the bean fields were being ploughed—

And then—to vary the monotony—she was off to San Antonio with a girl friend to study that strange, new and still somewhat doubtful craft—stenography!

Now why—cried her exasperated brother—did she want to do that? And would she have so stubbornly insisted upon doing it if she could have foreseen the long trail that would be unwinding from those tapping keys?

Lady With Ideas
Determined No Gambler Should Sit on Bench

A little lady with ideas. And not backward about stating them. Which she proceeded to do with great vehemence when she heard that a poker-playing young upstart from nowhere was being suggested for the judgeship of her county.

Things had come to a pretty pass in Uvalde if owners of 30,000-acre tracts were to be supervised by low down, no account loafers like that. Something should be done about it—and Etty Rheiner, her gray eyes snapping, her pretty chin at its most militant tilt, proceeded to tell all available Texas just what should be done about it.

But Texas didn't listen. Young Jack went in—to be "Judge Garner" at 26.

Etty, leaving San Antonio decided to retire to her principalities and let the rest of the world go to the dogs. Which but for a trifling incident, she would have done.

The trifling incident arrived unexpectedly. He was at her elbow, taking her hand, his smiling, quizzical eyes looking down into her startled, slightly indignant ones before she knew what had happened or had caught a friend's muttered introduction.

When the name was repeated, her indignation became real. There before her, still holding her hand, still smiling, stood the low down, no account loafer himself!

So she met him.

But had she not met him already?

Had she not shared with him from the very beginning, all that made him what he was?

Heroic men and women braving a wilderness—they had built her background as they had built his. Hardship, privation, danger, discipline—they had conditioned her nature as they had conditioned his.

A lonely boy and a lonely girl—at last they had found the answer to their common need.

Still he held that hand he has never ceased to cherish—still he looked into those eyes that have never ceased to follow. What did their lips say in that first moment together? What does it matter?

That had come to them which needs no words. Only their hearts spoke, echoing love's old sweet vow—

"Entreat me not to leave thee—
"Or to return from following after thee;
"For whither thou goest, I will go;
"And where thou lodgest, I will lodge.
"Thy people shall be my people,
"And thy God my God."

'Dixie' Begins Fete For 'King' Cotton

ANDERSON, S. C., May 12.—(AP.)—A parade of more than 50 floats, representing various phases of the life of Dixie's "King," officially opened the second annual Southern Cotton Festival here yesterday.

For two days the city is given over to fun and frolic in honor of the Southland's most important crop. A serious motive underlies the program, however, for increased use of cotton and its commodities is being stressed.

McCANNS

Invites Comparison on a Quality Basis!

THRIFTY food shoppers compare prices, yes! But they compare quality, too. A low price doesn't make a food bargain. It's the flavor of the butter . . . the size of the pineapples . . . the quality of the meat . . . accurate measure and weight that determines value. Shop regularly at McCanns and you'll agree with thousands of Pittsburghers that a bargain is a bargain at McCanns . . . that quality is cheapest in the end!

BOROUGH PLANS WATER PLANT

The Borough of Smithfield has asked the Public Service Commission for permission to build its own water plant. The application was heard yesterday by Commissioner Samuel Wayne.

It is alleged the supply of the Smithfield Water Company is inadequate, that the town has no fire protection and in the interest of the health of the community of 200 families an adequate supply should be given. The borough claims the company's pipes leak. The borough would obtain its supply from the Barton Estate by building lines connecting with the Barton Water Line Company. The borough proposes to issue $5,000 in bonds to build the line. Pressure would be obtained by gravity water to come from mountain streams.

William E. Sheridan, official of the Commonwealth Trust Company, living at the Keystone Athletic Club, was ordered to pay $150 monthly to his wife, Agnes E. Sheridan, 5920 Kentucky avenue, by Judge Harry Rowand in Common Pleas Court.

Answering his wife's contention that he has large investments, Sheridan declared that his salary has been reduced to $7,650 year and that his assets consist of $27,345 up as collateral for obligations aggregating $82,800.

AUTO ACCIDENTS PROMISE GIVEN 'ARMY' DONORS

Through large scale purchase of supplies and education of housewives in kitchen economics, overhead costs for the distribution of relief have been almost eliminated, Lieut. Col. C. B. Campbell, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, said today. He declared the Army would guarantee any contributor that it would devote every dollar contributed to the purpose stated by the donor, he said.

"We will prove this performance by submitting a periodical report to the contributor, showing precisely where his or her dollars for charity were expended. We will show that 100 cents of each dollar went to the stipulated relief."

He made the statement to correct any belief that part of the contributions go for overhead. The Army is conducting a campaign for $112,500 for relief work in this district.

Friendship Between Nations' Women Would Foil Trouble Makers, Senora de Aldag Says

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

If there is friendship between the women on both sides of the Rio Grande no politicians should be able to make trouble between the two countries, Senora Consuelo de Aldag, of Mexico City, told the educational department of the Congress of Clubs yesterday. Mexico is dealing with its Indian problems differently than the United States, Senora de Aldag said. There an attempt is being made to take education to the Indian, to incorporate him into the body social and to make him Mexico-conscious as an individual. Revolutions in her country had to be; they were a part of the progress of its evolution, the speaker remarked. Mexico is finding its soul, she said.

Senora de Aldag was introduced by Luis Perez-Abreu, Mexican consul, who told a little about his country as a vacation spot and praised the late Ambassador Dwight Morrow, as did Senora de Aldag. Three vacation talks had preceded her address: Mrs. R. T. Alexander describing Salt Lake City, Mrs. R. W. Johnston speaking of Chautauqua Assembly and its customs, and Mrs. D. M. Campbell giving "six minutes out of 25 years" spent in Canada.

Paul Fleeger contributed piano numbers to the program and the Ingram Woman's Club Choral sang a group of three in which they showed excellent training and vocal ability.

PARIS, May 13.—The LeLong coat, of plain colored dark green woolen, is worn over a dress of contrasting material—A striped dress whose green is in harmony with the coat. The scarf collar of the dress serves as collar to the coat as well.

BUTTONS, whole rows of them, mark the straight sleeves of this LeLong coat. They begin at the wrist and end only just below the shoulders at the band which forms the line of a yoke across the back. The coat has a double-breasted fastening at the top, but is single-breasted below, where it fastens at the waist under a ring-buckle of silvered metal.

It is hoped to find places for men and women, in some cases for a man and wife and even families, Mr. Beatty said. The workers would be placed under several plans, some employed on a share basis, others on salary and still others for meals and shelter.

Drive for Funds to Feed Unemployment Victims Pushed by Father Cox

Father Cox is more in earnest than ever in his appeal to friends and others interested in his almost gigantic task of feeding unemployed to get behind the Father Cox Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery drive. The first installment of the funds for his work secured through this drive made him realize more than ever that here is an opportunity for his friends and others in sympathy with his work to do something worth-while.

Father Cox

Father Cox is not at all optimistic about the near future. His poor, his needy and his starving army of unemployed, he thinks, will need his care for many months to come. This is particularly evidenced by the fact that the funds of other relief agencies are getting dangerously low and this will make the bread line at old St. Patrick's longer and longer every day. And Father Cox is not finding it as easy to get funds for his work as he did a few months ago.

He frankly urges his friends and supporters to subscribe for the Sun-Telegraph so that he can get a substantial commission for each order.

Up to date the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive has met with gratifying success. If you want to help this "father of the jobless" at a time when he most needs help, at a time when the problem of feeding thousands of hungry men, women and children is more serious than ever, clip the order blank on this page and send it in today. You'll not only get a GOOD newspaper, but you'll have the personal satisfaction of giving your personal aid to a worthy cause. Send the subscription blank to Father Cox if you wish.

Friend Identifies Store Fire Victim

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., May 12.—(INS.)—Ralph Delprete, Braddock, identified the body of a man found near the charred ruins of the Adolph Schwartz general store at Georgetown last week as Frank Ruffolo, of Braddock. Delprete based his identification on a truss found near the body.

DO YOU INHALE?

© F. AMERICA
TUNE IN ON LUCKY STRIKE—60 modern minutes with the world's finest dance orchestras, and famous Lucky Strike news features, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening over N. B. C. networks.

INHALING has long been an "untouchable"... a subject taboo in the tobacco trade... a "sacred cow"! Why?... Because in every tobacco leaf—even the finest, the mildest—nature hides certain impurities which, when not removed, are unkind to delicate membranes!

And since, knowingly or unknowingly, we all inhale some part of the smoke from our cigarette—Lucky Strike developed that great scientific process which removes certain impurities. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

END OF ICELAND DRY LAW SEEN

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 12.—(AP.)—Iceland today seemed likely to abolish prohibition soon.

The Parliamentary Commission was preparing a bill legalizing the sale of strong drinks within hours to be fixed by the various local administrations.

Prohibition was decreed in Iceland, under Danish rule, in 1913. In 1915 the Parliament passed its own prohibition law.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement does not get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Refuse substitutes. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Women Should Not Consider Men as Meal Tickets

She's "sure she could manage a husband." She has even picked the husband to manage!

But first she wants us to tell her how to catch him to—she admits it herself—she's "pretty dumb about boy friends."

Can you give her a tip?

She's done everything she can think of short of taking advantage of Leap Year. She doesn't want to do that because ever if she must use her art to lead him to the altar she doesn't wish him to suspect it.

Altogether it's a pretty sad case, especially since Romeo so far has ignored her and seems interested in another girl.

"Dear Sally:

CONSIDERS MARRIAGE

"I find myself in a most peculiar situation, and I wonder if you would hand me a few pointers. I am almost 23 and I've been out of high since 1926. Since that time I've worked at almost every kind of a job imaginable. I have had plenty of opportunities to meet any number of young men but those I met only confirmed me in my decision to go through life alone.

"Now since last Thanksgiving I have been home and I've grown accustomed to the tempo of small town life again. I see so many of my old schoolmates married and with families their interests all centered in their homes that I have begun to feel how useless my choice of single blessedness is.

"Since New Years Day I have considered all the boys in town but only two or three come up to my idea of a compatible mate. One really does come up to my ideal but he is half a year younger than I. However I don't think that would make much difference. Do you?

ONE-SIDED SITUATION

"But understand this is all one-sided. I have decided he's the one I want. But he doesn't know a thing about it and he is somewhat interested in a girl from a nearby town too. I see him every day but I have never had a date with him. You see I am not allowed to go to many dances and parties and I've never yet been allowed to entertain even a small party at home.

"I have inquired about him from his former school teachers and from our pastor and everyone speaks well of him. Of course it is leap year but I never would take advantage of that. I want a real marriage in the real old-fashioned way.

He comes to our place to deliver goods quite often. I make are to have cake cookies or candy to offer him. But what I want to know is how to inspire him to ask for a date and to do it so he'll think he's the one who wants it.

Please tell me how. I'm pretty dumb about boy friends but I'm sure I could manage a husband. How can I lure him into one?

"You can't, unless he wants to be lured into one. And as a matter of fact if I were you, I wouldn't try. A girl who runs after a man is a pretty silly sight, spectacle and you're plenty apt to have your hand away it.

LOOKING FOR BARGAIN

Never thought of that did you? No of course not. You've been looking the boys over as you look over potatoes in a bin and wondering which one would give you the most and you've decided that this chap is it.

And now you're trying to hook him not because you care for him but because you figure he'd be a good bargain for Lil Jo I wouldn't tell you how to get him if I knew.

Then what'll you do? Here's what:

Look yourself over. Quit demanding the world with a fence around it. Learn to be a warm generous human woman. Learn to look at men not as meal tickets but as human beings like yourself with all the same petty faults that you have and with the same right to be themselves that you claim for yourself.

Learn to appreciate men and not expect them to be angels or to give you everything on earth.

And stop imagining that you'll have a right to "manage" a husband if you get one. A husband is a partner not a doormat and if you can't realize that you have no right to have one.

Fay King Warns Disputants There Are Two Sides to Every Story

By FAY KING

There are two sides to every story.

Of course the person telling his side will naturally make it seem to be the right side. No one can be blamed for that.

So that in coming to a proper decision both sides must be listened to, and the truth is to be found when the bitterness and self-justification have been sifted out.

And that is why it is so unfair for the girl who listens so sympathetically to a man who has only blame for his wife.

It is so unlikely that she will ever hear the wife's side of the story.

She will appreciate his wife's side of the story when she finds herself blamed in turn to the next girl he falls for.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Appendicitis Is Made Far More Dangerous by Delay

Fatalities from appendicitis have increased during the last 10 years. This statement may be unexpected because of the great advances that have been made in surgery within the last 25 years.

Dr. Copeland.

Not so long ago the operation for appendicitis created great anxiety and fear. Today the operation is accepted with little apprehension.

Unfortunately there is too much carelessness and neglect of a disease which requires immediate attention. Very often the afflicted individual realizes that he is suffering from an attack of appendicitis but delays calling a physician. In too many cases the physician is called when it is too late.

Statistics show that 40 per cent of the appendicitis patients entering hospitals today display signs of what the doctors call "ruptured appendix." This is indeed tragic, for when the appendix ruptures the peritoneum, or lining of the abdomen, it becomes infected and this causes a serious condition called peritonitis. When peritonitis is present as a complication appendicitis is a serious and often a fatal disease.

Appendicitis, as the name implies, is an inflammation of the appendix. This organ is located in the lower right side of the abdomen and is attached to a portion of the large intestine, known as the caecum. The use of the appendix has never been determined.

The appendix becomes infected by one of the various germs which may cause appendicitis. The most common is the colon bacillus, a germ which comes from the intestine.

Pain is produced when the appendix becomes inflamed. Bear in mind that this pain often resembles what is vulgarly called the "bellyache." At first the pain is localized around the navel and then it passes to the right side of the abdomen.

Fever is present, together with nausea and vomiting. At this stage of the trouble many a person makes a serious mistake. He takes a laxative hoping to relieve the pain. This is dangerous, for if the pain is due to appendicitis, taking a laxative may cause the appendix to rupture. Please remember that any abdominal pain that has lasted for six hours then requires immediate medical attention.

Severe abdominal pain is always a danger signal. Do not neglect the warning that nature gives you. In such cases never take food or medicine without your doctor's permission. Never take a laxative!

If your doctor advises operation, do not delay. To postpone it even for a few hours may mean weeks of convalescence. An operation for appendicitis, performed without delay by a competent surgeon, is almost always successful.

It is possible to reduce the death rate in acute appendicitis. This can only be accomplished by your complete co-operation with your physician. The danger of walking around with a diseased appendix is far greater than that of an operation.

-:- Hints for the Household -:-

Flecks of white fat showing through the fiber of raw meat means the meat will have more flavor and be more tender than if without them.

A glass jar is nice to have in the ice compartment of the refrigerator to hold the cleaned lettuce and parsley. They will stay wonderfully fresh therein.

When putting a cake or pudding in the oven that requires "timing" set the alarm clock to go off at the time it needs attention.

Do not rub soap directly upon woolen materials. Make a lukewarm soapsuds solution and wash the garment in it. Rinse in the same temperature water.

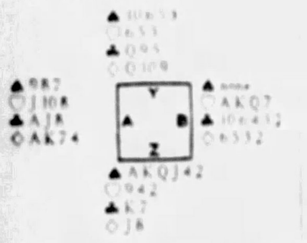
OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

The Gods Favored Them

Y-Z called their opponents "lucky guys" after the hand below was over, but everyone had to admit that B played his cards beautifully.



Z made an opening bid of 1-Spade, when he was vulnerable, at a score of 70. A made an informatory double; he could not afford to let Z walk away with the rubber. Y passed. B bid 2-Hearts. Z went 2-Spades, and A raised to 3-Hearts. Contracting should have ceased there, but Z made a foolish bid of 3-Spades. Fearing that his partner held nothing of value, A passed. Y passed. Encouraged by his partner's assist instead of doubling, B made a wild bid of 4-Hearts. This held the contract.

The opening lead was the K of spades. B trumped with his 7 of hearts. The odds were a little greater than two to one that opposing trumps would not be found 3-3 with opponents, but B had to hope for that division. He also hoped to be able to establish his long club suit with the loss of only a single trick. There was no use in waiting to try the club distribution later. B at once led his lowest club, finessing dummy's J, and losing the trick to Y's Q. Seeing no utility in leading trumps, Y led back a spade. B trumped with his Q.

For the fourth trick B led his lowest remaining club. Z had to play his K. A's Ace won the trick. B was now ready for his grand experiment. He led dummy's last spade and trumped with his K of hearts. The declarer led his last trump (the Ace of hearts) winning his fifth trick. Dummy was put in the lead with its K of diamonds, to find out whether trumps would fall in two leads. A's J and 10 of hearts were led. Both Y and Z followed suit dropping all the trumps. B discarded his two lowest diamonds.

Having removed all danger that opponents might ruff the declarer's good clubs, A's 8 of clubs was led. Y covered with his 9. B's 10 won the trick leaving him with two established clubs. The eleventh and twelfth tricks were won with those two good clubs. A discarded two losing diamonds. Z let go his last two spades. Y discarded his last spade and one of his two remaining diamonds.

If Y had led a trump when he won his club trick it would not have mattered. B led one round of trumps and a round of trumps by Y would have been only the equivalent of the round taken later by the declarer. A lead of clubs by Y, or a lead of diamonds by Y would not have mattered. Either lead would have been the equal of a later similar lead by B. A very abnormal hold-off by Y, refusing to win the trick taken with his Q of clubs, would not have saved game, but would have resulted in a lessened score for A-B.

In case Z had bid 4-Spades, and been doubled he would have lost 1,000 points (two diamond tricks, one club trick, three heart tricks).

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married very soon and I would like to know if what I have in mind for the wedding attendants is correct.

For personal reasons I don't want to be given away by anyone, though my father is living. I have read (in a fiction book) of a bride who walked down the aisle alone and it rather appealed to me. What is your opinion regarding this idea? I expect to have one bridesmaid, two ushers and the best man.

L.

If the denomination of the church in which you are to be married does not demand that you be presented in marriage, there is no reason why you should be. Consult the minister about this.

Most brides are so "terrified" at the thought of walking down the aisle alone that they usually insist on inviting some male relative to accompany them. But if this thought doesn't worry you, I see no reason why you should not do what you wish to do. There is another alternative, you might walk down the aisle alone and have the person who is to present you in marriage join you at the altar at the appropriate time for this presentation.

Don't Wear Gloves

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a constant reader of your very helpful column and am coming to you for a little of your good advice to those in doubt. I am to be married very soon in the presence of the immediate families. I am not going to be married in white, but shall wear an afternoon dress and hat. I am in doubt as to whether I should wear gloves with this outfit. The wedding will be in the morning. If gloves are necessary, what kind?

DOUBTFUL.

With this informal costume I advise you not to wear gloves. Of course you would wear gloves to the church or to the clergyman's home, if you are to be married there, but you would not wear them during the ceremony. If you are to be married in your own home, you certainly would not wear gloves with this attire.

STATE LABOR GROUP INDORSES PROSPERITY LOAN

KLINE FORCES BEAT MALONE IN 5TH WARD

30 Policemen Guard Hall Against Violence; Name Chairmen in 31 Districts

The forces of Mayor Charles H. Kline stood further intrenched in the Fifth Ward today by virtue of a steam roller election of the Republican ward chairman last night.

Harry Feldman, Kline-backed candidate, was re-elected over David Roberts, a lieutenant of James F. Malone, former City Councilman and ex-Secretary of the State Department of Supplies. The vote was 44 to 31, with one of the 76 committee members absent.

Mindful of the rioting which marked Feldman's election to the chairmanship over Malone two years ago, 30 city patrolmen surrounded the Watt School, Watt street, where the election was held. They were under command of Capt. John Schnurr and four lieutenants. Three state police, eight city detectives and 10 deputy sheriffs also were on hand.

NO DISTURBANCE

There was no disturbance aside from bickering from the floor as the vote progressed.

Miss Sylvia Franz was elected chairlady, Mrs. Daisy Parker, vice chairlady; Leon Framer, treasurer, and Walter Smith, secretary. All are Feldman followers and, with the exception of Mrs. Parker, who defeated Mrs. Marie Taylor, 42 to 34, were chosen by unanimous vote.

Roberts was defeated after two candidates, friendly to Kline, withdrew in favor of Feldman. They were Battis Carroll, a fire captain, and Alderman Robert H. Logan.

Roberts' followers said Carroll quit the race on orders of Mayor Charles H. Kline, following a conference Tuesday night in Butler, where the Mayor is on trial for malfeasance in office.

Roberts, commenting on his defeat today, said:

"I was not a Malone candidate but an Independent candidate. Any votes I got were my own. It is unfair to Mr. Malone and unfair to me to say otherwise."

SULLIVAN OUSTED

After 20 years as leader in the Strip district, Congressman P. J. Sullivan was dropped as chairman of the Sixth Ward Republican organization and replaced by Representative George Metzler last night. Congressman Sullivan and 18 of his adherents were absent. Metzler was elected, 26 to 18.

Alderman John Kenna was named the Eighth Ward Republican chairman where for years Roy D. Schooley was the leader. This year Schooley made no fight for leadership and his followers showed little fight.

Representative Samuel J. Grenet was re-elected leader of the Twenty-seventh Ward.

Alderman John J. Verona was elected chairman of the Third Ward at a meeting in Washington Recreation Park at which 41 of the 44 members were present.

In the Fourth Ward, Attorney Howard Neely again was selected to head the organization.

HERD IN 21st WARD

William A. Herd was re-elected chairman of the Twenty-first Ward, North Side. Mary E. McGuckin was elected chairwoman, Samuel Little, son of Councilman Harry Little, was elected secretary, and Ben Carothers, treasurer.

Chairmen elected were:

FOUR ELECTION FRAUD CASES TRIED

Ten from Duquesne Freed; Ex-Constable of 1st Ward Says Police 'Framed' Him

Four election fraud trials, growing out of the September voting, were under way in Criminal Court today.

While they were in progress, Judge William H. McNaugher placed Saul Roth, a special policeman in McKees Rocks, convicted yesterday of intimidating voters, under a two-year parole. The trials heard were:

1. John (Jack) Schneider, former First Ward constable, charged with conspiracy to cause false registration of voters. Attorney Louis Little, representing Schneider, charged his client had been "framed" by city police, calling attention to the fact that the candidate who defeated him was Paul Walsh, son of Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh.

BOXER 'PUNCH DRUNK'

George King, a boxer of 1308 Forbes street, indicted with Schneider, turned state's evidence yesterday, pleading guilty and testifying that Schneider had promised to get him professional fights if he obtained votes for him. He said he was "punch drunk" at the time he negotiated with the former constable.

2—Joseph Berilla, inspector of the First District of the Second Ward, McKees Rocks, and Alex Jadinak, of Campbell street, charged with erasing marks on ballots. The Jadinak indictment was quashed by the court and the trial of Berilla started.

3—Edward Dehring, Edward Morian and Frank Smith, election board officials and James W. and Flora Johnson, all of the Ninth Ward, Ross Township, were found guilty on various charges of election law violations.

10 FROM DUQUESNE

4—Ten defendants from the First District of the First Ward, Duquesne, accused of various irregularities in connection with the balloting there, were acquitted, seven of them in directed verdicts.

Mike Legosh, acting constable of McKees Rocks, yesterday was found not guilty of intimidating voters, and George Panyko, of 115 Strowl street, McKees Rocks, was acquitted of a charge of destroying specimen ballots. The costs of the Legosh case were placed on Leo Riordan, Independent Republican investigator, who was the prosecutor. In the Panyka trial, the costs were divided between Riordan and the defendant. Riordan also was the prosecutor in the Ross Township cases.

Man Fails to Make Fund Report, Held

Accused of failing to remit to Father James R. Cox's relief committee, the proceeds from 15 gross of polishing cloths, Clarence Vetter, 35, of Kirkwood Hotel, today was held for further investigation by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

Mrs. Marie Hooper, 224 Montville street, testified Vetter had been named distributor for the cloths, and that Vetter and the relief organization were to share in the profits. No accounting was made, it was said. Vetter, at the hearing, offered to make restitution, but refused to say what had become of the cloths.

Tech's Campus Week Perils 20-Cent Diet

MISS MABELLE STEELE . . . PREPARING A $1-DINNER FOR FIVE

Spring Merrymaking Likely to Tempt Menu Testers

Living on their dietary budget of 20 cents a day isn't going to be easy for the five Carnegie Tech co-eds in the household economics department next week, because of the round of parties, dances and ceremonies which attend Tech's annual spring festival, starting next Thursday.

Monday morning the five girls, Frances Graham, Laila Ikola, Marion Black, Elinor Kutchka and Mabelle Steele, started their experiment to test the practicability of economical menus, allowing themselves a maximum of 20 cents a day each for food. They forgot all about Campus Week, until the experiment had been launched.

In spite of the forthcoming banquets, rich desserts and candies, the girls unanimously voted to continue their diet test to completion, May 22.

Today's dinner menu includes a graham pudding for which the girls have prepared the following recipe:

Ingredients are 3 cupfuls milk, 2 tablespoonfuls tapioca, 6 tablespoonfuls sugar, ¼ teaspoonful salt, 10 graham crackers and 1 egg.

Method: Scald the milk in a two-quart double boiler. Add the tapioca, sugar, salt, and the graham crackers crumbled. Cook for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from fire and pour over the slightly beaten egg yolk and then mix thoroughly. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven. Make a meringue by beating the egg white until it is stiff enough to hold its shape. Add two teaspoons of sugar, cover the pudding with the meringue and place it in the oven to brown.

Menus for today are:

BREAKFAST

LUNCH

DINNER

Lamb stew with carrots, potatoes and onions, raw spinach salad with lemon juice dressing, white bread, butter, graham pudding, tea, milk.

PENNSY TRUCK LINK MEETS OPPOSITION

26 Independent Haulers Here Protest Road's Plan For State-Wide Service

Twenty-six independent trucking concerns yesterday objected to the application of the Pennsylvania Transfer Company to the Public Service Commission for a certificate to haul freight by truck to all parts of the state, when it became known the Pennsylvania Railroad is indirectly behind the applicant and likely to engage heavily in the business to meet competition.

Former Public Service Commissioner Charles H. Young, who represented the applicant for the certificate, admitted that the Pennsylvania Railroad is looking out for its interests in that respect, as far as this proceeding is concerned.

AFFILIATION SHOWN

It was developed on cross-examination of Paul T. Stackhouse, 1013 Penn avenue, secretary-treasurer-manager of the applicant concern, that the company's stock is owned by the American Contract and Trust Company, affiliated with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Immediately following that admission, Attorney Lex N. Mitchell, representing the independent truckers, requested Examiner W. E. Best, who heard the application, to dismiss the case. Examiner Best refused.

Examiner Best refused to dismiss the proceedings, saying:

"That is a matter for the commission."

It was further developed that the National Carloading Corporation, which handles less than carload shipments, already gives the Pennsylvania Transfer Company approximately 1,000,000 pounds of freight monthly for delivery in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

TROLLEY PROTEST

The Pittsburgh Railways Company also protested against the application, but when Attorney Young agreed to stipulate that the Pennsylvania Transfer Company will limit, for the present at least, the shipment of freight by truck to not less than 2,000-pound lots from the consignor to the consignee, the protest was withdrawn. The independent truckers would not agree to that, claiming it too vital to their interests.

Attorney Young explained to Examiner Best the Public Service Commission may make some important rulings on the trucking question and his agreement with the Pittsburgh Railways Company would be subject to the policy adopted by the Public Service Commission.

Miss Bullion, Homestead co-ed, winner among 25 Duquesne University sociology students who at the Stanley saw a prescreening of "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," murder mystery broadcast by the Sun-Telegraph's WCAE. Miss Bullion alone guessed the slayer, his motive, the proper reason. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

GIRL'S FATE UP TO RADIO JURY

The fate of Miss Vivienne Ware, charged with the murder of Damon Fenwicke in the radio drama over WCAE, is in the hands of the jury.

With a stirring battle between the District Attorney and the defense counsel in their addresses to the jury, the trial was finished last night.

The public—those who followed the fiction story over WCAE for the past three weeks—may send their verdicts to the Sun-Telegraph. Guilty or innocent—the choice should be told in less than 100 words.

"The Trial of Vivienne Ware" will be shown in motion picture form at the Stanley Theater.

5-BILLION ISSUE ADVOCATED BY FEDERATION

County Commissioners Join In Nationwide Appeal For Federal Jobless Aid

READING, Pa., May 12.—The State Federation of Labor, headed by John A. Phillips, today wholeheartedly indorsed the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan, which Congress is being urged to pass to meet unemployment conditions by developing necessary public improvements.

The resolution, prepared by President Phillips and Patrick T. Fagan, of Pittsburgh, president District 5 United Mine Workers, will be sent to senators and congressmen from Pennsylvania who will be urged to work for the loan.

THE RESOLUTION

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the United States Congress has before it a bill providing for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for the purpose of instituting a great program of public works which is calculated to materially alleviate the unemployment situation and put large sums of money into immediate circulation, therefore,

"Be it resolved, That this convention instruct the officers of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor to urge passage of the public works bond issue, provided of course that the bill contains all the safeguards required by the officers of the American Federation of Labor, and,

"Be it further resolved, That all delegates here assembled undertake to have their respective organizations stronly urge the prompt passage of this important item of legislation on the grounds that it is the only means now possible of reviving trade and industry."

COMMISSIONERS APPROVE

The Board of County Commissioners have added their indorsement to that of the throngs of other civic, social, welfare and business leaders who believe that the prosperity loan should be passed by Congress to prevent poverty and create payrolls.

A resolution, introduced at the weekly meeting of the board yesterday by Chairman C. C. McGovern, was approved by Commissioner William D. Mansfield and C. M. Barr.

The proposal stated:

"Be it resolved that the Board of County Commissioners urge a federal relief program of $5,000,000,000 as suggested by Mr. William Randolph Hearst, to meet the present emergencies."

WORKS NEEDED

The indorsement was particularly appropriate, due to the conditions of unemployment and destitution in Allegheny County, and the need of public improvements, such as flood control, the Ohio River Canal and countless

Briton's Faith in U. S. Hailed by Writer

By WINIFRED BLACK

(Copyright, 1932, by San Francisco Examiner and Universal Service, Inc.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Ameri'a is coming back.

Lord Rothermere, publisher of the London Daily Mail, sees it and knows it and says it, in good plain English, in goo plain print.

Hands across the sea, sir—you're a man of sense, and you know enough to use your brain as well as your eyes.

America coming back?—why of course it is.

How can it do anything else?

Look what we have done in the last hundred years.

We took a wild, untamed, uncultivated country of agricultural communities and turned it into the richest and most powerful and busiest and happiest country in the world.

We turned small isolated rural towns into great manufacturing centers.

We built railroads, fine railroads, too, remember that.

We made highways through the swamps and the forests and over the mountains.

We built up the finest school system in the world.

The common, everyday American has more comforts and more luxuries today than most of the well-to-do people in other countries.

We have better homes, better food, and better clothes and better wages.

And we've got these things not by magic, but by sheer American grit and courage and pride and hard work and common sense.

Are we going to give them up just because we've been through a little spell of hard times?

Don't you believe it.

The Board of Aldermen of New York City adopted a resolution yesterday asking Congress to put that prosperity loan through without a day's delay.

The American Legion is swinging into line, demanding the same thing.

Representative Keller, of Illinois, has introduced a bill asking immediate construction of over 3,000 postoffices and public buildings. If the bill passes, over 1,000,000 men will go to work within 60 days. And when they draw pay, that pay will go into immediate circulation and at least 5,000,000 people will get the benefit.

The good plain American citizen had begun to realize that he's in an emergency—now watch him rise to it.

Seven hundred thousand men and women out of work in Chicago.

One hundred and seventy-four thousand nine hundred and forty-three people out of work in Los Angeles.

Sixty thousand five hundred and ten men and women out of work in Seattle.

Twenty thousand registered unemployed in Washington.

And 75 per cent of these people, mark you, are skilled workers.

Depressed—Lord Rothermere—not so you'd notice it.

Not now.

We're good and mad, we plain Americans, and our heads are up, and our shoulders are back and we're going to fight this fight and win.

We can't expect our just debts to be paid—we're almost through hoping for that, but we do expect our own good staunch old ship of state to weather this storm, and we're going to weather it all by ourselves. We Americans, and the Congress and the Senate of the United States will put through that $5,000,000,000 bond measure—or maybe some of us will ask some very uncomfortable questions, when our representatives adjourn in Washington and come home.

Teacher Blames Steedle In McKees Rocks Ouster

Asserting politics entered into her dismissal as teacher in the McKees Rocks High School, Miss Hazel G. Clever, daughter of a McKees Rocks undertaker, today prepared to carry a complaint to the State Department of Public Instruction.

Miss Clever, one of 18 teachers discharged because of "economic conditions," according to the explanation of the Board of Education, declared she asked for additional reasons for her dismissal. A. D. Levy, secretary of the board, it was reported, told her in the presence of her mother:

"I'm sorry Hazel, but Dr. Steedle demands that the school board let you out and that's all there is to it."

The explanation was given, it was learned, in the office of Miles Bryan, so-called political "boss" of McKees Rocks. Miss Clever went with her mother to Dr. J. G. Steedle, state assemblyman, who is quoted as saying:

"I intend to use any weapon against your father—and you're the weapon. You're fired, and what are you going to do about it?"

WELFARE DEPUTY'S PLEA

Mrs. Hugh Glenn Evans, [illegible] deputy secretary of welfare, [illegible] added her plea to the others who previously had spoken for aid. Giving a panorama of conditions in the state she said:

"Private funds are dwindling rapidly and there has been no reduction in demands for relief. Families which have held out for a year and a half have reached the end of their resources.

"Landlords have carried a tremendous burden. Many houses needing repair menace health. There has been a great loss of homes. Tax sales in some of the smaller counties have been large in spite of the law which provides no sales until the August of the second year after the levy. In small counties, they are running from 100 to 150 a month.

TAX COLLECTIONS FALL

"One county, adjoining Allegheny, expects to collect only 50 per cent of the taxes this year, last year it got 60 per cent.

"Malnutrition in one school reached 70 per cent.

"One of the most ominous signs is the thinning process—attempting to spread inadequate relief over a large number of families."

A conservative estimate of the unemployed in the state was set at 1,250,000 for March while in January the number was estimated by Dr. A. M. Northrup, secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry, at 1,001,000.

It is considered [illegible] that the actual number of unemployed is far larger, due to the disappearance of a number of companies.

TRADE INDEX

Indexes of trade and industry in March and early April has also dropped, indicating a lowering of the wage scale, as well as additional unemployment. One barometer was considered the decline in bank deposits over preceding months, as reported by the Monthly Business Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of this district.

In the table of statistics of the Reserve Bank, all items of trade showed minus signs—indicating decreases, excepting one. That was commercial failures, which showed a 2 per cent increase.

Executive committees of eight community councils between the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers will meet legislators of the district tonight to discuss relief legislation. The meeting will be held in the Adams room at McCann's East Liberty store.

VOTE MACHINE QUIZ SHIFTS HERE

Hirsh and Morin Will Go On Stand When Inquiry Is Resumed on Tuesday

Investigation by a Senate committee of the steps through which Allegheny County purchased more than $1,000,000 worth of voting machines will be continued next Tuesday in Pittsburgh, when H. D. Hirsh, first president and "whole works" of the Electromatic Vote Machine Corporation, and former Congressman John Morin, will be the chief witnesses.

Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the committee which conducted a two-day inquiry in Harrisburg this week, transferred the hearings to Pittsburgh from the capitol yesterday. Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, attorney for the Citizens' Voting Machine Committee, expressing a desire for time to study testimony before cross-examining Hirsh.

MORIN ASKS TIME

Hirsh was the last witness yesterday, though Morin was called to testify. He however asked the right to give his testimony in Pittsburgh after he had said he needed time to secure records which might be pertinent.

Hirsh answered only perfunctory questions yesterday respecting the chain of contracts existing between himself and other individuals and corporations designed to show how he had secured patent rights of the American Voting Machine Company and first through Electromatic, and then as an individual, had secured the Poole Engineering Company, of Baltimore, to manufacture the machines.

The Harrisburg testimony revealed that associates of Hirsh, including his brother, F. I. Hirsh, E. N. Rosenthal and C. G. Brown, all with offices at 704 Grant Building, had made as much as 500 per cent on the voting machine deal.

CONTRIBUTED TO FUND

They contributed to a fund for sales and promotion expense, and, with the exception of Hirsh, each received $24,650. Brown putting in $6,000, Rosenthal $10,000 and F. I. Hirsh $5,000. H. D. Hirsh received attorney fees in addition to his profit. All transactions were in cash and there were no records introduced except the contracts.

The committee, through a majority vote by Senators Joseph G. Armstrong and C. W. Parkinson, prevented Lindsay's asking F. I. Hirsh what he did with the money he received as his share, beyond the denial that any of it had been used for bribery and corruption.

The story of how these men had made a huge profit on the voting machine deal plainly interested the committee.

Siam Goes Off Gold As Rice Price Falls

BANGKOK, Siam, May 12.—(AP.)—Siam went off the gold standard today because of a slump in the price of rice.

The rical went back to its old rate of 11 to the pound sterling. The rice industry was expected to benefit by the change because the bulk of the trade is in countries whose currency either is the pound, or is influenced by the pound.

MECHANIZED ELECTION

PRESIDENT THOMAS DUNN VOTING AT C. OF C. BALLOTING

2 VOTE MACHINE AIDES HIRED

The County Commissioners have hired two more inspectors to check the work being done by the Commercial Equipment Company, which is reconditioning the voting machines to meet the requirements of Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish.

H. N. Wood, $25-a-day expert hired two months ago by the commissioners, yesterday told the commissioners that he needed the two additional inspectors. In a verbal report to the commissioners he said:

"There are still some bugs in the voting machine, so that if somebody maliciously wanted to hold up an election he could jam the machines."

Which led Commissioner McGovern to remark:

"The voting machine business seems to have developed into a vilification campaign. This stuff you are telling us now should have been told to the law department so that we can proceed on the bond."

On motion of Commissioner Barr, George Meyers and Blair Sutton were hired at $7.50 a day for 28 days to inspect the machines.

C. OF C. BALLOTS ON DIRECTORS

Balloting was begun today among the members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce for 12 members of the board of directors. Among the 24 nominees are former Gov. John S. Fisher, 12 presidents of Pittsburgh business concerns, an attorney and two traffic experts.

The balloting is being done on an Allegheny County voting machine. Each voter casts a ballot for 12 candidates.

Nominees include: F. L. Andrews, A. E. Braun, Albert H. Burchfield, B. B. Croup, James S. Crutchfield, Adam E. Daum, Charles Donley, Thomas A. Dunn, Horace S. Edward, John S. Fisher, George R. Hann, Howard Heinz, Nathan B. Jacobs, Dr. S. B. Linhart, Frank Wilbur Main, Lewis W. McIntyre, William Meyer, William L. Monro, Harry W. Neely, J. B. Nessle, Frank R. Phillips, Charles K. BUS LINES FIGHT OVER ROUTE

A contest for the right to transport passengers between Pittsburgh and Elizabeth between the Penn Bus Company and the Monongahela Bus Company was brought out yesterday when Public Service Commissioner S. Ray Shelby heard the application of the Penn company, to which the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad objected.

The Penn Bus Company, it was testified, under its certificate rights lacks authority to pick up passengers in Elizabeth, but in West Elizabeth it can receive or discharge passengers. This is three-quarters of a mile from Elizabeth.

The Monongahela Bus Company desires to operate its Dravosburg buses by way of Elizabeth and carry passengers to Pittsburgh. The Monongahela concern's application was heard several weeks ago. It is objecting to the Penn line's application.

Don't let them count you out

A man is never whipped as long as he is physically fit—

If you don't feel your best when you awake in the morning . . . eager to eat . . . ready to go . . . you may be sure of one thing—the foundation of the "joy of living" is lacking. The reasonable answer is—

Build up your system - - gain new strength

I am one of those who can't afford hospital treatment or to go to a health resort when worry and overwork cause me to become 'run-down'—my position would be at stake . . . my family is dependent upon my earnings.

"I have the sense to know that a 'lowered' blood count makes one feel weak . . . and when I become 'run-down' S.S.S. quickly puts me on my feet again."

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—this long established medicine acts by stimulating the secretions of the stomach . . . reviving the appetite . . . aiding digestion . . . regenerating hemoglobin . . . restoring the red-blood-cells—and builds greater resistance against infection and disease.

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes; regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. S.S.S. may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

Listen, You Skinny Girls!

Men's Eyes Follow Seductive Curves---Not Walking Skeletons

But Read No More Unless You Want to Put 5-15 Pounds of Attractive Flesh on Your Bones and Have an Adorable Figure (No Fat)

The new style clothes, girls, are going to be cruel to you unless you have the softly rounded form that men's eyes follow with admiration and approval.

If you are skinny—bony—underweight—every rib you have will show. Your shoulder blades will stick out in sharp points. You'll be all angles and hollows—skin and bones—instead of adorably feminine.

The angular type of figure is not the one that men admire. Nor is it fashionable any more. Just look at the movie stars nowadays! See how much plumper they are now than they used to be. Think of the generous curves of some of the new favorites. Producers are actually urging their stars to put on weight.

Flo Ziegfeld, who picks the most beautiful girls in the world for his shows, is quoted as saying: "The new beauty has the softly feminine contour. Curves mean health and health means vitality and verve—the things that create personality."

If she stays bony!

But she can quickly pad those bones and fill in the hollows. She can put on 2 to 4 pounds a week and mold her figure to the new styles—

By Doing Two Easy Things

No stuffing. No forcing down of rich foods you don't like. No nauseating cod liver oil nor other so-called "builders." No fuss about "vitamines," "calories," nor any trick menus.

The First Easy Thing

Before every meal take a tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin. It will make it easy for you to digest your food and get the full good of normal, tasty, appetizing meals. It's pleasant to take, and in many ways closely resembles the gastric juice, or digestive fluid, Nature supplies in a healthy stomach.

The Second Easy Thing

Eat as much as you want (but don't think you have to stuff) of delicious inexpensive foods that appeal to you—things like tender beef, lamb, chicken, fresh fish, cream soups, young string beans, peas, asparagus tips, ice cream, angel food, etc. Let your appetite be your guide. (With every bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin there's a list of the appetizing foods that will help you put on weight quickly and agreeably.)

You'll be delighted to find you have no more distress after eating—no gas, biliousness, sick headaches, heartburn. And when your food is properly digested, you are no longer constipated. So don't take any laxatives, soda, or "antacids," but let Nature and her Mentha Pepsin take care of the chemistry in your stomach.

How Much Do You Want to Gain?

Almost at once you begin to gain. A hollow chest fills out. Curves take the place of sharp angles. Arms and legs become adorably rounded. Ribs and shoulder blades disappear under attractive flesh. You find yourself becoming comfortably unholstered. (No unhealthy fat—just normal, healthy flesh!) You sleep well and get up rested—with radiant color and sparkling eyes. You no longer tire at the slightest exertion. You have no "nerves." And you get no end of compliments about your charming figure!

Important

There is no substitute for Dare's Mentha Pepsin, nothing else you can buy that will do exactly what Dare's does in your stomach. So be sure to get the original and genuine—DARE'S MENTHA PEPSIN. Sold by all good druggists, like Mayflower Drug Stores, Inc., with a guarantee of money back if even one bottle does not give you the results you hoped for.

PITTSBURGHERS CLAIM RECORD AUTO SPEED

Los Angeles-New York Trip Sets Mark After Crash Balks Westward Race

Two youthful Pittsburghers today claimed the record for fastest automobile travel between Los Angeles and New York.

Bob MacKenzie, driver, and Joe Harberth, mechanic, crossed the continent in 60 hours and 26 minutes, they reported to local backers of the project. This time betters the record set three years ago by 25 minutes.

Driving an Essex coupe furnished by Pierpoint Motor Company, local Hudson-Essex distributor, the pair averaged 54 miles an hour in their East-West trip across the continent.

Their first attempt, an East-to-West run, failed because of storms in the Middle West and a wreck in the Rocky Mountains. The car skidded from the road and rolled down a steep slope, turning over five times. It landed on its wheels and was driven back up to the road.

With but three days of rest in Los Angeles, the pair started back across the continent in their partially-wrecked car. The trip East was without accident or incident, except for a rainstorm over Ohio and Pennsylvania that delayed them somewhat.

Their top speed was 75 miles an hour, MacKenzie said.

"It was monotonous. At that speed you have to watch the road every second.

"It's safe enough, however. Our accident was caused by the fact that we were behind time and taking chances going down grade."

The marathon car, battered by the roll down the mountain slope, is back at the Pierpoint Building on Baum boulevard.

Auto Crash Brings — $75,000 Suit Here

William F. Burke and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Burke, of Pittsburgh, filed a suit for $75,000 damages in Federal Court against the Renie Chain Stores because of alleged injuries sustained by Mrs. Burke in an automobile accident.

Congress Knows Where It Wants to Go But Not How

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Trouble with Washington is that it knows where to go, but not how to get there.

We need money like a tent needs guy ropes. The way to get it is to rain taxes on the just and unjust alike.

Secretary Hurley wants to save the Army and sacrifice flood control. In this way we would be sure of a concert by the Marine Band with the next Mississippi overflow.

Other Congressmen want to tax this and that. In the meantime the watchdog of the Treasury is howling at the fiscal moon just bobbing over the horizon.

All this agitation to straighten out things for the presidential campaign gives us an idea.

Make the next President sign the usual four-year lease guaranteeing to leave the White House in the same condition he found it.

'Cradle to Grave' Relief Plan Aids 6,000 Needy in District

DISTRIBUTING FOOD IN ALLEGHENY VALLEY'S THOROUGH-GOING RELIEF ASSOCIATION

Jobless Helped With Babies, Funerals By Workers

A "cradle to the grave" relief agency, in which most of the necessary commodities of life from infancy to oblivion are dispensed, is being conducted in Tarentum, Brackenridge and Natrona by the Allegheny Valley Emergency Relief Association.

More than 6,000 people, representing nearly 1,600 families, are being provided for by the association, with its headquarters in Tarentum. Headed by welfare workers of the Allegheny Steel Company, the organization, which is soon to be incorporated by law, has opened three stores, one in each community which it serves.

When children were born into families which the association had been supporting, it became apparent that the association must not only supply medical aid, but also clothes for the infant. Several women, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Thompson, of Brackenridge, took material which the association furnished and sewed baby clothing.

Members of the relief agency also assisted in a funeral where the family was unable to pay for the service.

Walter C. Titus, director of welfare of the Allegheny Steel Company and executive director of the relief agency, said that funds for the work, which had been furnished by subscriptions by citizens and contributions by the steel company, had reached a low ebb and that further aid would be necessary to continue the work.

Attendance Large At City Playgrounds

Unusually large attendance has been noticed at the 10 city playgrounds already open, and records may be broken, it was said today at the Bureau of Recreation. The full playground period does not start until schools close.

Supt. W. C. Batchelor said dates are being taken up for the 51 baseball fields. Swimming pools will open about the middle of June.

Sharpsburg Plans Memorial Day Fete

Sharpsburg council last night discussed staggering the work of policemen to permit vacations, and agreed to co-operate with civic groups for a Memorial Day celebration. President Alfred Pontello presided.

SOKOLS START PRAGUE TRIP

There were tears and farewells as well as smiles and handshakes as scores of Czechoslovaks from Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania boarded a special train in the Pennsylvania Station, for Brooklyn, to sail on the North German Lloyd Liner Europa.

The happy members of the party were 50 bound for Prague as delegates to the convention of the Sokol Union in June.

Sad were the many husbands, wives and children taking advantage of the excursion to return permanently to their native land. Mrs. Elizabeth Billy, whose husband already is back in her native town of Rokowitz, sobbed as she held her two daughters, Alice and Margaret.

After 11 years in America, she said, she and her family were forced to go back where they were "sure of a living." She added:

"I hope my children may come back some day."

COUNTY TO SEEK PAY WITH BONDS

Payment with interest of debts to the county will be demanded of several municipalities where joint improvements have been made.

Commissioner W. D. Mansfield yesterday voted against charging the municipalities interest when Commissioner C. M. Barr proposed that where it is impossible to pay in cash, the subdivisions pay in bonds with interest that in some cases amounts to 36 per cent.

Mansfield said:

"I am for collecting these bills if we can, but not for charging them interest. After all everybody in the county benefits by improvements and wears them out."

Commissioner McGovern upheld Barr's motion.

PLAN TRAINING FOR ASSESSORS

The County Commissioners are planning to establish a school for assessors to train future employes of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes. The proposal was offered at yesterday's meeting by George E. Meyers, chairman of the board.

Discussion of the school prompted Commissioner C. C. McGovern to remark:

"How did it happen that a lot of ex-soldiers were laid off? I understand about 45 men were kept on. Couldn't the ex-soldiers do this work?"

Meyers replied:

"Harry C. Workmaster, supervisor of assessors, furnished the list to me. I am not familiar enough with the ability of the men laid off to tell whether they are competent or not."

Dam Commissions Meet Power Board

The newly-appointed Ohio and Pennsylvania dam commissions were to meet here today with the Water and Power Resources Board of Pennsylvania to discuss construction problems of the Pymatuning dam and reservoir near the Mercer-Crawford County line. The Water and Power Resources Board was to entertain the members of the commissions at luncheon in the Duquesne Club, a business meeting following.

A meeting of the Sanitary Water Board, with Dr. Theodore A. Appel presiding, will be held tonight in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

RECOLLECTIONS -:- Gossip and News From World Of Make-Believe -:- PLAYLAND FOLK

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Constance Collier, who is not only the star of "Hay Fever" at the Alvin, but also directed the production, has a larger store of theatrical anecdote than any other player before the public, because she has been associated with great actors of France and England as well as America. It was the elder Coquelin, first and finest of all Cyranos, who taught her comedy.

It was in one of the plays of W. S. Gilbert that she made a great hit as a[illegible] mere girl—and won the privilege of visiting Gilbert's garden where the author of "The Mikado" had 12 gardeners to keep visitors from picking his roses or stealing his peaches. But perhaps the most interesting incident in Miss Collier's career was when she and Dame Ellen Terry conferred knighthood on Beerbohm Tree, most famous English actor after Sir Henry Irving.

BY RIGHT OF BIRTH

Beerbohm Tree's company was playing "The Merry Wives of Windsor." Tree, of course, was Sir John Falstaff. Ellen Terry was Mistress Page and Constance Collier was Mistress Ford. By the way, Miss Collier was born at Windsor, so the role would fall to her by right of the birth register.

In the last scene, where Falstaff is lying under Herne's Oak, while the fairies dance around and pinch him, the knighthood was conferred upon him by the two Merry Wives. It had become known to the company, though it had not been told officially to Tree, that knighthood had been conferred upon him among the royal birthday honors. So when the line of the play, "Arise, Sir John," was to be spoken, they changed it to "Arise, Sir Herbert!"

And that was the first time the actor-manager was greeted as Sir Herbert Tree. The audience was in on the joke and applauded immensely.

BROUGHT BY FROHMAN

Constance Collier was brought to America by Charles Frohman. She had been playing in England for some years, and her position was next to the top, due both to her genius and her beauty. She had played such roles as Marianne in Stephen Phillips' "Herod," which Tree produced in London, and Fatherham in America. She had played Nancy Sykes in "Oliver Twist" when Tree played Bill. But a little rift had arisen, and Frohman heard of it. He sent for her, and sent for William Gillette, who was in the same hotel. In the brief space of half an hour the contract had been signed which brought Constance Collier to America to play the chief role with William Gillette in "Samson," a play by Henri Bernstein, author of "The Thief."

In America Constance Collier's rise was rapid. She made a great hit as a star in the drama of Thais, which Paul Kester had made out of Anatole France's famous novel.

But her greatest success of all was as Lady de Tower in "Peter Ibbetson," the play based upon Du Maurier's famous novel. In that drama John Barrymore also scored his first tremendous success, while Lionel Barrymore as old Ibbetson gave a remarkable performance.

Later on, Constance Collier wrote the libretto for the opera of "Peter Ibbetson," which has been sung at the Metropolitan a number of times.

THREE PLAYWRIGHTS

Of course Constance Collier has known a number of playwrights. Among them was Edmond Rostand, author of "Cyrano" and "Chantecler." She met Rostand often while "Chantecler" was being rehearsed—during which rehearsal Coquelin died in his chair.

Miss Collier remembers Rostand as the very embodiment of the romantic spirit. He belonged to the age of Victor Hugo and Alexander Dumas. In the Paris of Zola and Goncourt he was like Roland of ancient days.

The other dramatist she has known well, having appeared in many of his plays, is Bernard Shaw. She does not share the opinion of people who think Shaw is merely a jester; she considers him a profound thinker and a man of very serious mind. He is as well versed in economics as a professor, and knows as much about philosophy as any bishop.

HER THIRD FAVORITE

Her third favorite dramatist, naturally, is Noel Coward, who wrote "Hay Fever" and many other pleasant plays. Coward is a very young man, and Constance Collier thinks he is the coming dramatist of the English stage. He was an actor at a very early age, knows the theater from every angle, has a fertile invention and a facile technique.

Besides that, she says he is one of the busiest and happiest people on earth. Which also may be the secret of Constance Collier's own success, growing out of a personality and an intelligence rare among players of the present turbulent times.

In Person

Roscoe Ates, champion stutterer of the screen, will appear in person in the Stanley stage bill, "Let It Rain," to open Friday.

Baxter Star In Fulton

"Amateur Daddy," featuring Warner Baxter and Marian Nixon, showing in the Fulton, is a pleasing picture of a sentimental nature that has Baxter in a role that is something of the quality of his well-remembered part in "Daddy Longlegs." He is a bridge engineer who takes an entire orphaned family under his wing. The result is a picture that is entirely wholesome, with both comedy and drama evenly balanced and the romantic angle getting a play when there is gossip among the neighbors that the amateur daddy has more than paternal interest in the eldest daughter, the role played by Miss Nixon, who does nicely as the little mother of the brood.

Mr. Baxter is excellent in a part that might easily have been made over-sweet.

The picture will run seven days to permit the Fulton to return to Thursday openings next week.

'So Big' Feature Film In Enright

"So Big," Edna Ferber's story of American womanhood, is being screened in the Enright. The picture, featuring Barbara Stanwyck, revolves around a woman who takes advantage of the very few opportunities life offers. Bette Davis and Dickie Moore are also in the cast.

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

Romance A La Broadway.

MARION, star manicurist in Billy's Broadway barber shop, looked up from the hand she was holding. Her gaze encountered a pair of friendly blue eyes. There was something in those eyes that she had never seen before. Her heart was pounding wildly. She gulped, and returned to the hand once again.

With an effort, she made her voice sound natural.

"You want them short or long, mister?"

The man's voice was soft and smooth—almost melodious. Marion smiled to herself. She had known it would be.

"Any way you fix 'em, girlie. Jus just the way I want 'em."

The girl nodded. If you had stepped into the shop at this moment you would have sworn that this was just an ordinary job for Marion; the same thing she did day in and day out. But you would have been wrong. As far as she was concerned, this was the file that came once in a lifetime. Marion was in love, in love at very first sight. Her dream prince had arrived at last!

Think you, my friends, that the Broadway manicurists have no dream princes? Think you that, because many of them are hardboiled and wise to the ways of the world, their hearts do not bounce to the first bleat of an honest love? Ah, how mistaken you are if that is your opinion.

I can assure you they, too, go in a big way for the little Cupid with the outstretched bow and the poisoned arrow. Sometimes, of course, their dream princes ride about with guns in their belts—and many of these gallant knights have been rudely dispatched into eternity before a true love could really dawn. But the feeling is there just the same.

And so it was with Marion. Ever since she had arrived in the big city from Goose Creek, she had been waiting for that one man to arrive. True, she was extremely pretty and four out of every five men had ideas. She smiled at all of them because she had long since learned that the sweeter the smile, the larger the tip. She went out occasionally, but none of these men had been her dream prince. Not one of them, in fact, has even been as much as a nightmare duke.

So she had waited. One year. Two years. Three years. She nipped with her nippers and cutied all the cuticles. She said nothing to anyone, but always she was confident that the door would open one afternoon and her dream prince would walk in. And if he staggered in, that would be all right, too.

At last it had happened. THE man had sat himself in the chair at her table. How did she know it was THE man? That's too tough for me to answer. Maybe it would have been just as tough for Marion. But she knew what she knew—and can anyone know more?

They didn't speak, these two. It was as if the merd touch was enough. Rest assured, though, that this was no ordinary manicure the dream prince was getting. Marion's buffer fairly flew. When each nail was completed it was a fit subject for the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

When the job was over, the man stood up. He gave her a $5 bill.

"My name is Tom," he said simply. "I like you. Will you have dinner with me tonight?"

In cases such as these Marion had stock answers. Sometimes she said her dear mother was ill. Sometimes it was her baby brother who was calling for her. But she had never been known to say yes right away.

"Yes, Tom," she said right away. "I'd love to."

'Swonderful what a dream prince can do. . . .

Late that night, Marion and her man sat in Central Park. Her head rested upon his shoulder. Her eyes were closed.

"Oh, Tom," she breathed, "you don't know what this means to me. All my life I've been longing for the one man—and when I realize that I've found him, I want to cry for joy.

"Everything has been so grand. That dinner tonight. That picture. That moment when you first held my hand and told me that you cared, too. Oh, Tom, I'm so happy. And to think there are those who say that two people can't fall in love at first sight!"

Tom pressed her close. Then, with an effort, he drew his arm away.

"Kid," he asserted, "you're the sweetest broad I ever met. I'm crazy about you an' I don't think I'm doin' the square thing. I gotta tell you somethin'. An' it's somethin' that's not very nice."

Marion clutched at his arm.

"Don't tell me, Tom," she cried. I don't care about anything in this world except you. Let's forget—"

"I told you, kid," he interrupted firmly, "that I gotta tell you. Before we get too daffy about each other, you must know that there's only one thing that's gonna keep us apart. I was found guilty of burglary last week. I'm out on bail right now, and tomorrow mornin' I'm gonna be sentenced.

"I'm goin' to prison, kid. And it's gonna be a long, long time before I see you again."

Poor Marion! Her dream prince was to prove little more than a phantom. The phantom of the barber shop. Here today and jailed tomorrow. She stood up.

"Take me home, Tom," she muttered nervously, "I—I want to think." . . .

Not until they reached the front door that led to Marion's flat did either person say another word. The girl inserted the key in the lock. Then she yanked it out and wheeled suddenly. She gripped his arms.

"What's the use of fighting?" she said rapidly. "It doesn't make any difference what you've done, Tom. I love you. And I can't let you go. I won't, I tell you. I've waited too long to find you."

The man looked very helpless.

"I'm sorry, kid. Honest I am. An' you gotta know that you mean as much to me as I do to you. When I think of goin' to jail tomorrow instead of to your arms, I want to jump in the river. Why, it's almost enough to make a man wanna go straight.

"But there it is, baby. We gotta part."

Marion looked into his eyes. Her words came evenly and firmly.

"No we don't," she said. "As you say, jail is the only thing that stands in the way of our happiness. You're out on bail now. Do you know what we're going to do?"

Tom said he didn't.

"We're going to get married," she cried triumphantly. "Right away. Tonight. You're going to forget about your bail and we're going away together. We'll start anew, Tom, just like they did in that movie tonight. The cops will never find us."

The man shook his head.

"I can't do that, kid," he muttered. "If I did, the bail money would be lost. It wouldn't be fair."

Marion bit her lip.

"Oh, darling, what difference does it make? We'll have each other. Let the bail go."

The dream prince shook his head.

"It wouldn't be fair," he insisted doggedly. "That bail money was put up by my wife and I couldn't play her a dirty trick like that!" . . .

Mitzie Green 'Wows 'Em' in Radio Program

Mitzi Green, the little mimic, made a name for herself over the air recently, when she broadcasted from New York over NBC.

Mitzi is as much at home in front of a studio 'mike,' as when she is doing her work in a Hollywood picture studio and has as many friends in radio circles as in the picture theaters. She will return to Hollywood shortly to resume her picture work, and rumor has it that she will be co-starred with Edna May Oliver in "Hell Bent for Election."

It wasn't THIS that ruined Jack's blouse

it was STRONG SOAP

"You'd never guess," said Jack's mother, "that these blouses are practically new. Look how they're going."

Her neighbor said . . . "I'm sure it's that strong soap you're using. It's rotting the materials . . . no wonder they go! Why don't you use Chipso? Chipso will wash just as fast as strong granulated soap. But Chipso will make your clothes wear longer."

And the neighbor was right.

You can easily tell if your present soap is too strong—whether it is soap chips, rubbing soap or granulated soap. If your soap roughens your hands when you use it for dishes, it's too strong for your clothes.

Try Chipso. Use Chipso for clothes and dishes and cleaning. Your hands will smooth up inside of a week.

Your clothes will get snowy in those bigger, velvet-rich suds. But Chipso suds are safe. They contain no free lye to rot threads and weaken materials. Why, Chipso keeps even your prettiest silk underwear looking new and fresh. All your clothes, cottons, linens, or silks, wear longer when you use Chipso.

Read these startling facts about "cheap chips"

Chipso is a real bargain. Don't, oh don't confuse Chipso with the cheap chips, or so-called flakes, which have recently appeared in the stores. These cheap soap chips cannot give you Chipso's help and safety. Too often they contain unpurified fats which are hard to rinse out . . . free lye which weakens and rots materials . . . excess water which merely increases the weight . . . lumps which are hard to dissolve . . . even dirt from unsanitary manufacturing methods.

Chipso suds do more work . . . give whiter clothes. Chipso goes farther. It saves your clothes and hands. Be sure you get genuine Chipso . . . it comes in the big blue box with the yellow stripe.

Hoover Tells Big Financiers To Be Helpful

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

New ... Jr. ... calls ... with ... missed ... delay ... want ... an improved ... for the ... decide ... that ... to relieve ... slide?

... One hears that ... sional ... has become ... moved ... that ... themselves on the ... side.

Financial ... regrettable ... absence.

TANGIBLE ... flow from the ... conference ... way in the country. There is nothing like a panic to paralyze the nerve to invite action. Every oil-producing nation has ample and reason for wanting to check the disastrous demoralization which is paralyzing the entire industry. Even before Hoover had gladly consented to participate in the powwow.

Oil is only one of a number of industries which have been doing their worst to commit financial suicide. Until ruinous price-cutting can be stopped, genuine industrial prosperity is out of the question. This basic truth is at last being driven home in at least a few directions, but price still prevents effective action in certain industries. "What fools these mortals be!"

HAPPILY American stockholders are beginning to exhibit a disposition to demand their rights. Heretofore the real owners of corporations, the ordinary stockholders, have been content to let directors and executives run things any old way. The latter have acted as czars, treating stockholders as inarticulate serfs.

This week the stockholders of one company, Consolidated Copper Mines, came forward, made themselves heard and successfully insisted upon representation. Stockholders refused to indorse the minutes describing certain actions of directors, authorized revision of the by-laws, modified the powers of the company's president and empowered stockholders to elect their own chairman to preside (instead of the president) at annual or special stockholders' meetings, elected two directors of their own choosing, abolished the executive committee, instituted salary control and reduced the amount officials could expend without direct authorization by the directors.

Charles M. Schwab recently remarked to me that it was high time stockholders, dubbed as owners, Mr. Schwab's own Bethlehem Steel stockholders recently had something to say and their wishes were promptly complied with.

There is, among others, one set of stockholders who should rise in rebellion, namely, the owners of America's leading rubber companies. Directors and executives have acted so shortsightedly that stockholders have suffered unconscionably.

Lack of leadership breeds dictatorship. The shipping industry is the latest to propose an overlord with broad dictatorial powers. Dictators and traditional Americanism don't harmonize. But necessity can reach such extremities that even a dictator becomes preferable to chaos and ruin.

Massachusetts Bars Two Insull Stocks

BOSTON, May 12.—(AP.)—The State Department of Public Utilities yesterday prohibited the sale in Massachusetts of securities of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Company. The action was taken because the companies failed to file with the department information relative to their business as required by law.

Pennsylvania Cuts R.R.C. Loan Request

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The Pennsylvania Railroad has filed an amended application with the Interstate Commerce Commission, asking approval of a loan of $27,500,000 for three years from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation instead of $55,000,000 as originally requested March 10.

The application stated the road applies for a loan of only $27,500,000 at the request of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and because of changed conditions the Pennsylvania is now willing to provide one-half of the original amount requested by sale of securities through banking and investment channels.

SELLING WAVE HITS ENTIRE STOCK LIST

Union Pacific and Santa Fe Drop More Than 3 Points; Steel, Can, Jersey Down

NEW YORK, May 12—(AP.)—Selling started in rail shares and gradually embraced the entire list of today's stock market.

The market remained sluggish, but the firmer tendency of recent sessions disappeared, and several of the rail portrait new low ground. The market seemed more intent upon dividend cuts and the generally low state of trade than upon remedial measures such as efforts toward international credit expansion, as indicated in the Bank of England's rate cut.

Union Pacific sagged more than 3 points, going under 50 on announcement of reduction of its dividend. Santa Fe slipped about as much to a new low. Miscellaneous issues off 1 to 2 points included American Telephone, American Can, United States Steel, New York Central, Standard of New Jersey, Eastman, Coca Cola, Allied Chemical, du Pont, Woolworth, Sears, United Aircraft, American Tobacco "B," Case and others. Some of the preferred shares were again soft, notably those of John Manville, Case and Adams Express.

Union Pacific's reduction of its quarterly dividend to $1.50 from $2.50 was less drastic than expected in some quarters. Halving of the payment had been freely predicted. But selling, nonetheless, appeared from various sources, not in large volume, but sufficient to depress the generally feeble market. Selling of Santa Fe was coupled with the estimate of a reduced wheat crop, which would in turn cut into its traffic volume.

The federal problems of taxation continued to hold Wall street's attention, and bankers still reiterated that little in the way of recovery could be expected until uncertainties on that score were lifted. The $12,000,000,000 public works plan advanced in Democratic quarters did not receive the adverse comment that many similar proposals of public expenditure have, in view of the strings attached to it, notably that it should be preceded by budget balancing and the funds be spent on self-liquidating projects. United States government bonds, however, eased a little.

Action of the London Clearing House banks in reducing interest paid on deposits to ½ of 1 per cent, brought the rates there in line with those just announced by the New York Clearing House, and was viewed in some quarters as an evidence of international co-operation, inasmuch as the maintenance of a higher rate in London might have tended to attract deposits from New York.

CORN FOLLOWS WHEAT DOWN

CHICAGO, May 12.—Material setbacks in grain values took place early today influenced by disappointing cables and by enlarged pressure to sell. Buying power appeared to be at a minimum. Opening ½ to 1⅛ down, wheat later held near the initial range. Corn started ⅛ to ⅜ off and subsequently receded further.

Suggestions that United States winter wheat crop had been understimated gave some advantage to bears. Notice was also taken of a statement recalling that curtailment of the corn crop last year by one-third did not prevent the price of corn from falling more than one-half. The conclusion was drawn that supplies alone could not be counted on as an indicator of price.

The Canadian government report was construed as bearish on account of indicating lower percentage of acreage reduction than had been forecast by railroad sources. Corn and oats sagged with wheat. Provisions were easy, responsive to action of cereals.

GIANTS WIN 21 IN 30 AT BUC PARK

PRESENTING ONE NEW [illegible] Lee Ellis Leonard Koenecke, high-priced [illegible] the New York Giants are here for their first visit of the season, and though John McGraw's [illegible] short of expectations [illegible] optimism [illegible] probable outcome of the Forbes Field series. For the New Yorkers usually do more damage in Pittsburgh than any other visiting troupe.

When the Giants last appeared on the Oak and let the Pirates managed to grab two out of three games, thanks to some exceptional pitching by Larry French and Bill Harris. That was the only series won by the Bucs from New York here in three straight seasons. Out of eight other series they lost six and tied two. The McGrawites took seven of the last eight bouts here in 1929, eight out of 11 in 1930, and six out of 11 in 1931, so that of their last 30 games in this city they won no fewer than 21, or an average of better than two out of every three.

Leonard Koenecke

IN A RESUME of the brilliant work done by rookie players Manager Burt Shotton of the Phillies has been congratulated on his success in digging up and developing some of the several youthful pitchers of exceptional promise presented in the majors this spring, in the person of Walter (Huck) Betts.

That would be all very fine were it not for the fact that Betts is 33 years old and broke into the big show 12 seasons ago, joining the Phillies way back in 1920 when Gavvy Cravath was manager. He pitched six straight years for the Quakers before taking a long trip to the minors, from which he was brought back this season.

FROM ONE ANGLE the second victory of Steve Hamas over Tommy Loughran on a split decision in Philadelphia last night was more convincing than the first. A two-round knockout may be flukey, but punching out a decision over Loughran in 10 rounds just about proves the case.

Evidently, Tommy's attempted comeback didn't click. Though the verdict was booed by his home-town followers, if Loughran had been the Loughran of old the bout would not have been close enough to give ground for any dispute.

AFTER ALL THAT has been said about Rabbit Maranville as baseball's age marvel, full justice has not been done to him. Before departing with the Braves last night, Maranville, differing from many players who are inclined to cheat a bit on their ages, made it known that he is a year older than listed. The record books give the Rabbit's birthday as November 11, 1892, but the little fellow declares that they muffed a whole year and that it was in 1891 that he busted into the vital statistics, so that he'll be 41 instead of 40 when Armistice Day rolls around again, and is one more hole up on Father Time than the score cards show. Oddly enough, Rabbit says, he has already celebrated his forty-first anniversary—in Japan. He was touring that country when his last birthday arrived, and learned that the custom there is to charge you up with a year at the beginning instead of at the conclusion of each twelve-month in your life.

George Kelly

THE DODGERS MAY have to keep George Kelly at first base longer than they figured. The fact that they left St. Louis last night without putting through the proposed deal for Jim Bottomley indicates that a hitch has developed.

Max Carey is more eager than ever to get Bottomley. Kelly has not been hitting up to expectations, and besides, Carey wants more left-hand punch in his batting order, which at present has only two southside swingers in Frank O'Doul and Johnny Frederick.

MEANWHILE, THE BROOKLYN skipper is worried about the condition of Hack Wilson, who is out with a leg injury. Carey would like to have Wilson back in the lineup for at least part of the series with the Pirates here next week, but admits he feels none too sure.

It was because of the probability that Hack would be out at least 10 days that the Brooklyn club bought Danny Taylor from the Cubs for $10,000. Danny will be kept on the job in right field until Wilson has completely recovered.

TAYLOR'S OFF DAY while the Cubs were playing here last week led to the Chicago club's decision to dispose of him. But Johnny Frederick, of the Dodgers, who played with Danny in Memphis in 1928, declares the West Newton man is underrated. "Taylor is a better fielder than a lot of people think, and I believe he's going to help us a whole lot," Frederick said. "He covers a lot of ground, and there isn't a player in the National League who can run faster from home to second base or from second to the plate. Danny is the kind of runner that picks up speed as he goes along, and he'll stretch many ordinary singles into doubles."

LOCAL BOXING FANS will have a chance to see Tony Canzoneri work out before his bout with Battling Gizzy, which is to reopen Meyers Bowl in North Braddock, Monday, May 23. The world lightweight champion is to arrive two days in advance and will appear in public workouts at the Pittsburgh Y's on May 21 and 22. There will be an admission charge of 15 cents for non-members.

Canzoneri recently was the guest of honor at a banquet in New Orleans. It was in that city that he started his boxing career, and a program of the show at which he fought his first fight was presented to him as a souvenir. His name appeared as "T. Canzonere." The program was dated June 29, 1922, when Tony was only 16.

IT WAS A record spring for injuries to star baseball players, and apparently a similar jinx has since attacked crack race horses. The withdrawal from Saturday's $50,000 Preakness of Slave Ship, Walter M. Jeffords' leading candidate, on account of a spread hoof, is another addition to a long list.

The sudden death of Phar Lap was the first and principal casualty. A training mishap ended the racing career of Twenty Grand. Equipoise was found ailing after a fine start. Top Flight, Kentucky Derby favorite, blew up and had to be withdrawn. An injury took Burning Blaze out of the same classic. Universe met a similar fate. Sealed Sweeping Light and Curacao, and sterling feet interrupted the training of Liberty Limited with the result that he broke down during the race.

Eddie Gerard

EDDIE GERARD WAS admittedly the best manager the New York Americans have had in the seven years of their hockey existence, but like all the others who have tried he couldn't get good results under the conditions that handicap a skipper on that club. He joins a growing line of men who torbled the same job and failed—Tommy Gorman, Newsy Lalonde, Shorty Green and Lionel Conacher. It's a hockey problem of general interest. Gerard himself, before taking hold of the New York club, pointed out that no ice manager can succeed unless he gets the right sort of help from the owners and players.

ENTRIES FLASH GOOD FORM IN TESTS

BALTIMORE, May 12.—(AP)—With all prospects pointing to a heavy track for the $50,000 Preakness Saturday, at least two of the probable starters have demonstrated they are at home in the mud.

Dash-bo, Leslie E. Keifer's sole hope for the Saturday classic, splashed his way through a mile and a sixteenth of fetlock deep mud to win The Hilltop yesterday's Pimlico feature from Barcelona Pete, Pennywise, Ladino and Paramour, all eligible, in 1:49 3-5.

MICROPHONE VICTOR

Microphone, the Sage stable's eligible, also won, beating Happy Scot, a non-eligible, and Portden. Linton farms' hope in the rich stake, over six furlongs in 1:14.

Track officials said that even under the best of conditions from now on the track could not be gotten into a semblance of fast condition for The Preakness. The racing strip has been under rain for the last four days, and yesterday's was the most driving of the lot.

Tick On, at one time co-favorite for the Kentucky Derby, but which ran sixth in the event, had his first workout yesterday, and turned four furlongs in :52, his mark at three-eighths post being :37.

The Glen Riddle Farms' War Hero turned in the best performance of the trials yesterday, going a mile and a quarter in 2:10 4-5, under restraint. He went the mile in 1:42 3-5 and the mile and an eighth in 1:58. Mereworth's stud's mad pursuit worked a mile in 1:46 and the extra quarter in 2:14 2-5. J. J. Robiano's Lucy Tom did a mile in 1:45.

A. A. OWNERS FACE DEFICIT

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP)—Ways and means of making the turnstiles sing a merrier tune were brought before American Association club owners at a special emergency meeting here today.

With gate receipts far below those of last year, itself a mediocre year, from the box office standpoint, the club owners were called together to consider several suggestions including proposals to cut players' salaries, trim the player limit and abolish ladies' days.

"There is no question but what something must be done," said President Thomas J. Hickey, president of the league. "Our attendance has been far, far below that of 1931 and our expenses about the same. I don't know what action will be taken, however."

Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians and President of the Toledo club of the Association, said he didn't think it would be possible to cut players' salaries because of contracts, although he recalled some clubs in other leagues had succeeded in slashing payrolls by informing players their teams would stop playing otherwise.

The player limit is listed at 20 effective June 1. Some of the club owners are known to be in favor of reducing it to 18, while some wanted it trimmed to even 17 or 16.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: MODERN STONE AGE MEN—Anthropologists claim that Australia is the real cradle of humanity, and that the Australian blackfellow is the true ancestor of mankind. The Australian aborigines are a vanishing race, numbering about 60,000, according to the latest statistics. In the unsettled areas of Australia the tribes still lead their primitive lives, devoid of clothing and using the primitive implements of the Stone Age about 100,000 years ago. They smear themselves with queer substitutes for paints and powders, with fantastic effects.

TOMORROW: A MOST "COURTED" FORMER CHAMPION.

SHIRES TELLS HIS STORY

Art (Wottaman) Shires, first baseman of the Boston Braves explained himself as a publicity phenomenom in a feature talk over WCAE during the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph last night.

Johnny Evers, former star of the Braves and now scout for the club, also spoke, and Rabbit Maranville, veteran star of the National League, got in just long enough at the closeout to get across a good wise crack about himself.

Bob Waddell, Carnegie Tech football coach, and Elmer Layden, Duquesne University coach, spoke on their spring training systems; Edward D. Seitz and Paul Sullivan, of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, confabbed on how to build and maintain a tennis court. Tom Birks sang "At Dawning." Miss Marian Salmon played a piano selection, and Julius Levin directed the barking of the Seals with Harry Keck as master of ceremonies and Bill Sutherland as announcer.

Charley Manning and Ted Luther, star golf professionals, will be featured on next Wednesday night's program.

Schmeling Welcomed At Training Quarters

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 12.—(AP)—This city turned out last night to give Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, a rousing reception as he arrived to open his training camp in preparation for next month's battle with Jack Sharkey at Long Island City.

There was an automobile parade led by the American Legion band, to the City Hall, where Mayor Carey received Schmeling and presented him with a key to the city.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Stories drifting back from Louisville, where they ran the Kentucky Derby last Saturday, tell how the wise bettors were steered off Burgoo King, the winner, by the decision of Jockey Fator to ride Brother Joe in preference to the King after working out with both . . . Burgoo King showed to better advantage in the drills, but Fator believed Brother Joe to be the better horse . . . As a result, 19-year-old Jockey James got the mount on Burgoo King and came home ahead by five lengths, and a lot of gamblers, large and small, were left to grieve . . . Many of the boys saved their bacon by going strong for Economic across the board, and this choice ran second.

The big match of the year in wrestling will be a meeting between Jim Londos, generally regarded as the champion, and Strangler Lewis, former champion . . . They haven't met in a long, long time, and Lewis always held the upper hand when they did clash . . . Lou Daro, Los Angeles promoter, has offered Londos $100,000 to defend the title against Lewis, but Ray Fabiani, of Philadelphia, has an option on the Greek for $75,000 because it was through Fabiani's efforts that Londos came to be recognized as the champion in Pennsylvania and New York and thus got a foothold in the throneroom . . . New York, Boston and Chicago are after the same match, and the promoter who lands it will be recognized as the Tex Rickard of the sport . . . It is doubtful if the match can be staged without a loss, but the promotorial prestige will be worth taking it on the chin financially.

The punt for the kickoff is out in football for the coming season after having been written into the rules changes . . . Now, if they'll just take out line play, end runs and forward passes, maybe Hobart will win a game . . . The Preakness, which will be run at Pimlico next Saturday with many of the horses that were in the Derby competing, including Burgoo King, was named after Preakness, a race horse, which, in turn, was named after the village of Preakness, N. J., where its owner had a breeding farm . . . The pro golfers now are going in for clinics, after the fashion of football coaches, and the doctors, who first established clinics, are going in for golf.

Ernie Schaaf, Jack Sharkey's stablemate, may have spoken more truth than poetry when he said he thought he could beat both Sharkey and Champion Max Schmeling and predicted that he would be champion within a year . . . Tony Herrera, Chicago lightweight, and his manager, Ray Alvis, are strong boosters for Ernie . . . They say he gave Young Stribling a much worse beating in their 10-round bout in Chicago than Schmeling did when he stopped the Georgian in 15 rounds in Cleveland last summer . . . "He's one of those strong fellows who can't be hurt, and he'll knock out anybody he hits solidly," Alvis declares.

Stanford's football game with Pitt here next fall will mark the third invasion of the Atlantic seaboard by Pop Warner's Indians within five years . . . They defeated Army at New York, 28-0, in 1928, and Dartmouth in the Harvard Stadium last fall, 32-6 . . . Tiny Thornhill, Pop's assistant on the Coast, played tackle alongside Jock Sutherland, Pitt's present coach, who was a guard on the Pitt teams of 1915-16 coached by Warner, and Pop often has said that 1916 outfit was the greatest he ever coached, to which we solemnly nod assent.—HARRY KECK.

French Olympic Stars Hope to Get Wine

PARIS, May 12.—(AP)—The French Olympic committee is still hoping that American prohibition authorities will allow French athletes at Los Angeles to have a quart of wine a day.

"If the Americans knew how great the effect on our boys will be if they are deprived of wine, they would be sporting and let us take as much as we need with us," one official said.

The committee has agreed to carry reserve supplies under seal and to obey any regulations which prohibition officers wish to impose.

City School Track Meet Is Postponed

The eliminations among the local members of the P. I. A. A. scheduled at the Schenley Oval this afternoon, have been postponed until Monday afternoon, it was announced today by C. Lawrence Walsh, supervisor of the department of hygiene in the Pittsburgh high schools.

Langley, Peabody, Fifth Avenue, South, Oliver, Westinghouse and Allderdice will compete in the meet, the winners qualifying for the state meet at Altoona on May 28.

Soggy courts prevented all matches scheduled in the city and suburban divisions of the tennis conference.

MEET LISTS OPEN

Entry blanks for the Junior A. A. U. track and field championships, to be held at Reese Field, Beaver Falls, Pa., on June 4, the Senior championships, to be held at the Pitt Stadium on June 18, and the A. C. H. meet at Kennywood Park on June 25, now are available at A. A. U. headquarters, room 35, Vanderpritt Building, A. A. U. officials today announced.

WEATHER RUINS FIRST CLASH OF SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The third rain postponement in succession was marked up at Forbes Field this morning when the Pittsburgh management canceled the contest scheduled for this afternoon between the New York Giants and the Pirates. The game will be played off as a part of a dual bill at the Oakland Orchard Tuesday, July 7.

Bill Terry

John McGraw led his supposed pennant chasers into our fair but moist city this morning. John, by the way, is up to his old tricks, he sent his two sterling left-handers to Pittsburgh ahead of his club to make ready for the team that proved a sucker for southpaw pitching last summer. Carl Hubbell and Bill Walker, two of the leading lefties of the league, arrived in town yesterday morning.

FIVE DOUBLEHEADERS

So far the springtime rains have resulted in carding no less than five doubleheaders for Forbes Field. The Braves will help to stage two of the twin attractions, the Reds, Phillies and Giants to be the Pirate opponents in the other three. The list is as follows: Saturday, June 25, Cincinnati; Thursday, July 7, New York; Wednesday, July 13, Boston; Saturday, July 16, Boston; Tuesday, July 19, Philadelphia.

The highly-touted Giants landed in Pittsburgh a sixth-place entry on top of a month of championship action. McGraw, however, is not discouraged. The situation in the league is such that a little winning streak on the part of the vaunted Polo Grounders would place the club in a desirable spot. The race hardly has begun, when the warm weather sets in the New Yorkers are apt to assert themselves, for they are potential contenders on the paper value of their stock.

PLENTY OF TALENT

President William E. Benswanger, of the Pirates, yesterday received a letter from Lefthander Charley Wood, who is recovering from an appendicitis operation at his Wichita home. The young southpaw's note had a hopeful tone. He expects to be able to join the Pirates in a few weeks.

PITCHERS IN DRILL

Managers McGraw and Gibson, of the Giants and Pirates, deeply concerned over the idle spell, ordered all pitchers and catchers to Forbes Field this afternoon. The Pittsburgh pilot instructed his sharpshooters to take a long workout and McGraw gave similar orders to his hurlers. The infield was so wet the athletes were told to stay off this part of the ball lot, so the battery drills took place in the outfield. The opposing managers naturally are more concerned over the pitchers than any of the players.

FINLAND MAY QUIT GAMES

HELSINGFORS, Finland, May 12.—(AP)—The talk of a Finnish boycott on the Olympic games at Los Angeles, if Paavo Nurmi is not reinstated shortly by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, has gained some headway.

Capt. Lauri Pihkala, head of the physical training department of Finland's volunteer army and long prominent in national athletics, told the Associated Press the financing of the trip of a Finnish team to California would be impossible, so far as contributions from the Finnish public are concerned, if Nurmi's disqualification is not rescinded.

Ordinary contributors would rather see Finland unrepresented at Los Angeles than have the team leave Helsingfors without Nurmi, according to Capt. Pihkala.

Beaver Valley Leaders in Meet

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 12.—Beaver Falls, New Brighton and Ellwood City, the Beaver Valley's leading high school track teams, will engage in a triangular meet here Saturday that is expected to definitely determine the district championship for the season.

New Brighton is favored to take the meet, having already defeated Ellwood City and Ambridge in dual meets and emerged the victor in the Geneva interscholastics.

HURLING AIDS YANKS' CLIMB

DUROCHER HITS BARTELL AS REDS WIN

Associated Press.

The New York Yankees no longer are getting the flamboyant batting that had opposing clubs hanging on the ropes the first fortnight of the campaign, but their pitching suddenly has become a thing of beauty.

In scoring four consecutive victories over Detroit and St. Louis and setting sail after the flying Washington Senators Joe McCarthy's cinchers have more than atoned for a marked falling off in the club's attack.

ALLEN BLANKS BROWNS

Johnny Allen, the rookie from Toronto who barely was hanging on until he bobbed up with a great job of relief twirling last week, won himself a starting berth yesterday when he set the Browns down 3 to 0 on five scattered hits.

All the other American League teams were weatherbound.

The Brooklyn Dodgers traveled 12 innings to beat out St. Louis, 6 to 3, and break a four-game losing streak. Their three runs in the twelfth were strictly a gift, the compliments of Bill Hallahan. In that frame the Cardinal southpaw uncorked three wild pitches, tying the major league record for that specialty, passed one man and allowed three hits.

REDS TRIM PHILS

Cincinnati fans enjoyed a large afternoon as their Reds made it two out of three over the Phillies, 4 to 1. Not only did Red Lucas hold the Phils to five hits and his battery mate, Ernie Lombardi, lead an assault on two visiting moundsmen, but there were fist-tuffs in the bargain.

Leo Durocher, displeased when he was tagged out stealing second, planted a right on the jaw of Dick Bartell, Phils shortstop. Bartell went down and Durocher went out.

As a reward for his fistic activities Durocher today was fined $50 and suspended for three days.

Two Finish Mat Bouts Carded

Two finished bouts will be on the next wrestling program at Motor Square Garden, Wednesday night of next week, it was announced today by Promoters Ray Fabiani and Charley Reinecke. This will be a departure from other shows staged here in which all of the bouts were limited in time with the exception of the windup.

Gino Garibaldi, the Italian, who defeated Frank Speers in last week's show, will appear in the main event against John Maxos, the Greek, who wrestled Strangler Lewis on the opening card of the season and has been here a few times since. Harold Cantonwine, of Iowa, meets Willie Davis, of West Virginia, in the other bout to a finish.

Three 30-minute limit preliminaries will complete the bill.

Thrills Mark Auto Race at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—(AP.)—Ernie Triplett, Los Angeles, won the 25-mile feature automobile race at the Legion Accot speedway last night in 18 minutes, 30 1-5 seconds.

At the start, Lester Spangler, San Pedro, and Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, leading, locked wheels on the second lap and their cars skidded crazily back and forth until they came to a standstill. The race was started over but Shaw and Spangler dropped out.

GENEWICH BACK

MINNEAPOLIS, May 12.—(AP.)—Joe Genewich, pitcher purchased from the Giants this spring, has been returned to the New York club, President Mike Kelly of the Minneapolis American Association club announced.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Those American League western clubs looked easy when they were far away, but they're just a carload of poison now. The difference between the Clevelands and Detroits is just about the difference between nitric and carbolic acid, and even the Browns are a swig of iodine.

The White Sox don't know whether they're a ball club or just a bunch of samples in Lou Fonseca's trunk for him to sell while he's out on the road. Right now the boys are thinking more of dodging the auctioneer's flag than of copping the pennant.

Speaking of trades this season, Babe Ruth's legs were supposed to be bad, but I haven't heard of the Yankees trying to displace him with Marlene Dietrich.

U. S. CUP STARS NEAR PEAK

NEW ORLEANS, May 12.—(AP.)—Fitz Eugene Dixon, non-playing captain of the United States Davis Cup team which tomorrow starts its engagement with Mexico in the semi-finals of the North American zone, expressed utmost confidence today on the eve of the match.

As the American team of Ellsworth Vines, Frank X. Shields, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn entered final practice it bore the label of its captain.

Although considered outclassed by the United States, the Mexican players have improved their game steadily as they gradually acclimated themselves and accustomed their strokes to the lower bounce of the ball which they find is heavier than at their high altitude home.

Ernesto Lopez, non-playing captain, said his men today were up to their standard form.

ANZACS, CUBA SET

HAVANA, Cuba, May 12.—(AP.)—Jack Crawford, No. 1 player of the Australian Davis Cup team, was drawn against Ricardo Morales for the first match of the Australia-Cuba tie starting here tomorrow.

Harry Hopman will meet the Cuban singles champion, Gustavo Vollmer, in the second singles match. The doubles Saturday will bring together the same four players, while on Sunday Crawford will meet Vollmer and Hopman will match strokes against Morales.

Legion Baseball Tourney Arranged

The Allegheny County organization of the American Legion has completed arrangements to sponsor its national program of junior baseball and to conduct the tournament through its athletic committee.

Teams will be made up of not more than 15 boys under the age of 17 years on June 29, 1932 and a manager.

Teams which are eligible should apply at once to the American Legion post in their community for details.

Entries must be in the hands of County Athletic Vice Chairman H. G. Blosser not later than May 28, and play will start the first week of June.

FAVORITES WIN IN WOMEN'S GOLF PLAY

By TOM BURKS

Soggy courses and an electrical storm were the scenes greeting for the inaugural of the women's team matches yesterday afternoon at Stanton Heights and St. Clair.

Section I swung into action at Stanton Heights, Oakmont, the defending champion had a bye in the opening matches, but Stanton defeated the Field Club 7 to 2. Butler celebrated its entry into the select circle by stopping Fox Chapel's representatives 6 to 2, and Allegheny ran true to form by defeating Edgewood 6 to 1.

RAIN HALTS PLAY

At St. Clair, the Section II matches ran into a snag, the late starters running into a storm that forced the suspension of play. Youghiogheny defeated Shannopin in a close match 5 to 4, and the home club players downed the Pittsburgh Country Club team, 6 to 3.

Westmoreland and Lenape were in the vicinity of the fifteenth hole when the deluge let loose.

Kiski school's golfers proved themselves to be the class of the interstate collegiate golfing fraternity by defeating the Duquesne University team 4 to 2 at Kiski yesterday afternoon.

Jim Marks, Jr., kept his win string intact by defeating Joe Tiffen of Duquesne 4 and 2. Capt. Bill Mellott of Kiski led his team to victory with a brilliant triumph over Xavier Tetzel, the Red and Beige captain, a great battle finishing with the Kiski captain ahead 1 up.

The other matches found Paul Argus of Duquesne defeating Foster Meyer of Kiski 2 and 1, and Kinder of Kiski turning in a victory by beating Tiernan of the Dukes 5 and 4.

MERCER MARKS WIN

The winning combination of Mercer and Marks proved to be equal to the task of beating Joe and Xavier Totten 3 and 2.

Today will be free from competitive golf and tomorrow scholastic battles will be staged.

Saturday will see plenty of action on the links. The Blue and Gold of Pitt clashes with Notre Dame at Highland Country Club and the Dukes will be host to Kiski on the first extensive invasion of the Valley for a match. Both matches will be played in the morning.

Tough Luck Still On Smith's Trail

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP)—Horton Smith of golf fame is still the victim of luck, all bad.

He was taken to a Chicago hospital yesterday suffering with a fecal infection just as the soreness was disappearing from his wrist which was broken last winter. Two years ago his teeth became infected, later the muscles of his back were infected, keeping him out of golf.

CARDS TO KEEP SUNNY JIM

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals intend to keep Sunny Jim Bottomley, unless they are able to trade him for first rate players.

This was the reply of Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis club, to a statement by Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who said there was trade talk between the two teams involving Bottomley.

"I do not expect any trade development while the Brooklyn team is here," said Rickey. Carey has no authority to make a deal, he said.

"I would not consent to trading Bottomley, unless such a trade would give the Cardinals added strength in the field," he said.

PITT TO BANK ON SEBASTAIN

E. JESS CARVER

Some of the strain of half-carrying in football at least until [illegible] Mac Sebastian, Pitt's star [illegible] jumper is expected to turn in a rare job of ground covering against Notre Dame in the dual meet with the Irish here Saturday.

Sebastian is a consistent jumper and if he had more time this spring might have been right up there with the best of them. But you can't carry the ball, take catch and throw passes and block, brushing tackles and ends and still find time to broad jump and with Mike spring football practice ranked ahead of track.

IRISH SQUAD BIG

The Irish are taking nothing for granted as they plan their invasion of the Stadium, and will fetch along no fewer than 35 athletes. If they knew as much about this Pitt track team as some of us they'd save some dough on railroad fare.

Tech's varsity squad is primed for its dual engagement tomorrow with Geneva's powerful team at Beaver Falls. The tough part of it is for the Tartans that the Covenanters (Geneva to you) are also primed and being generally more powerful and formidable than the Plaid they figure to come up on the long end of the count.

The Tipoff

Members of the Princeton Alumni Association of Western Pennsylvania expect a record turnout at the University Club banquet, according to Bear H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, new head grid mentor of the Tigers. The turnout is bound to be large enough it shuts Fats McMillan attends.

Juvenile experts who have seen Johnny Murphy, of Butler, perform with the cinder set are of the opinion that the only thing that will keep the Butler lad from shattering 200 feet this season will be a broken arm. He has been hitting around the 196-foot mark with rare consistency.

Pittsburgh gets a week at an Olympic rendezvous here tomorrow as Abe Millman, Notre Dame's crack quarter-miler who will run for the Lancers in the Chicago Invite in August. While on the school of quarter-milers and 400-meter runs, but it is known that the remarkable Pete Bergen, former Penn star holder of the quarter, his record is transfer to colonels and duty at the stadium for the Chicago Olympic and has broadcast the hope that he'll take Lattimore if the Olympic officials permit that. This will come as a shock to Lattimore.

Officials for W.-J. Grid Games Named

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 12.—Officials for eight of Washington and Jefferson's nine football games in 1932 have been selected and announced by Wilbur F. Henry, director of intercollegiate athletics. Six of the games are with schools subject to the Eastern Association for the Selection of Football Officials, and the arbiters were named by Commissioner Walter R. Okeson.

Officials for the intersectional games with Detroit and St. Xavier were selected by mutual agreement. Marquette officials will be selected in the same manner. The list follows:

Fields Arrested After Auto Crash

HIGHLAND, Ind., May 12.—(AP)—Jackie Fields, welterweight boxing champion, was arrested yesterday on a charge of ignoring a stop light after his automobile, in which he was riding with his wife, crashed into a small truck driven by Lester Smith of Hobart, who was accompanied by Albert Tomlinson, of Gary.

Eckhardt Ordered To Join Missions

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—(AP)—Oscar Eckhardt, outfielder and league leading hitter with the San Francisco Missions last season, will rejoin the Missions immediately as a result of the Boston Nationals' failure to exercise an option to purchase him. He joined the big league team on trial this spring.

YESTERDAY'S MUTUELS

[illegible]

Rain Keeps Local Sandlot Teams Id'e

For the third time in three nights, inclement weather has wiped out the district sandlot baseball schedule.

The first game of the Crawfords-House of David dual bill scheduled at 3 o'clock at Greenlee Field, was called off. If weather permits, the scheduled second game will be played starting at 6:30. Rain also ruined the opening Homestead Grays-Cuban Giants battle at Forbes Field.

JOHNNIES LOSE TO COLTS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 12.—(AP)—Collins' ninth-inning home run with the score deadlocked at two-all gave Cumberland a 3-to-2 victory over Johnstown yesterday.

Dubersteins homer with one on gave the Colts their two second-inning rallies. Johnstown scored twice in the second on three hits, a walk and a double steal.

FANS PROTEST HAMAS' WIN

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—(INS)—Young Steve Hamas, Passaic, N. J., heavyweight boaster, an unpopular decision over the veteran Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia today. He added the decision victory here last night in 10 rounds as an anti-climax to his knockout triumph over Tommy in New York last January.

Nearly 14,000 fans broke into an uproar of boos, hoots and hissing when the decision was announced, although Hamas, a former Penn State athlete, had been the favorite before the fight began.

Some newspaper men at the ringside disagreed with the decision, giving Loughran the rounds, Hamas three and calling the last two even.

The last round was a thriller, with both pounding for a knockout. Hamas was staggering around the ring half dazed. A minute before the final bell he uncorked a right to Loughran's jaw which made Loughran's knees buckle. He recovered however, and they were swapping punches when the fight ended.

Ripley Explains What Makes Best 'Believe It or Nots' for Contest

Suggests Exploding Myth in Making To Win Prize

What makes the best "Believe It or Not?" The Sun-Telegraph has been receiving many inquiries from contestants eager to win one of the nine grand prizes offered for the best "Believe It Or Not" in America.

"Just find something about which everyone has a mistaken impression and then correct it, you have a knockout."

PUNCTURE MYTH

"Puncture a myth in the making and you will win—the indignant protest of the world, 'You will be called a liar, but if you prove it in black and white, but you will win your choice of these prizes we are offering.

"Puncture a myth in the making. That's what I did with my 'Lindbergh was the sixty-seventh man to make a non-stop flight across the Atlantic.' The indignant response was overwhelming. But it was an easy one. Thousands of persons knew that Alcock and Brown in a plane and two Zeppelins had made the flight across the Atlantic.

WINNER IN MAKING

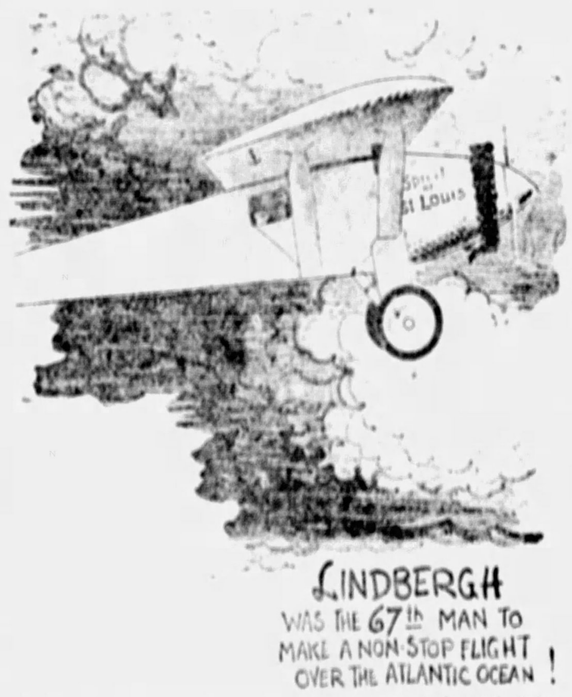
"Another one like that would win this contest hands down. And another one is in the making. I don't know what it is or I would spring it myself. It may be about this new tax bill, it may be about prohibition, it may be about the coming Presidential campaign. I don't know. But it can be done.

"I do know this, the best 'Believe-It-Or-Nots' are to be found right here at home. I could run the feature for two years and make it interesting from the information obtainable in any American city. But people like to see foreign wonders, too, so I give them to them. But the best ones have always been found right in my own back yard."

CHANCE TO WIN

Well, we hope that will answer the most frequently recurring inquiry. We hope that it will enable you to win one of these national prizes listed in an adjoining column as well as the daily prizes being awarded by the Sun-Telegraph.

All you have to do to compete is to write yours legibly on one side of the paper only, add any explanation or proof necessary and mail it to the "Believe It Or Not Editor" of the Sun-Telegraph. Bear in mind that the Ripley contest closes at midnight next Monday.



ONE OF ROBERT L. RIPLEY'S MOST "UNBELIEVED" SKETCHES

More Puzzling Questions Presented After Death Of Lola's Doctor

CHAPTER XXXI.

"You have been tailing Dr. Baldwin?"

"Yes, Mr. Commissioner."

"What have you got to report?"

"Very little, sir. Lieut. Fallon put me on the job when the doctor left here last night. He got down the elevator in front of me and I was afraid I'd missed him, but the elevator operator told me he had got off at the second floor, where his office was. So I come back to the second floor and prowled around a bit. There was a light in the office. I could see it through the glass pane so I pretended to be a drunk and tapped on the door. And I asked the doc if he would give me something to straighten me out before I went home to the wife. When he come to the door he looked awful mad. He had a wild look in his eyes and his hands were shaking. And he told me to get the hell out of here. So I thought that was all right.

"I beat it downstairs with Deems (that's my partner) and I put him on the servants' entrance. There is only the two ways you can get out of this joint, the front door or the servants' entrance. So then I went over and saw the superintendent of the house across the street and he fixed me up with this uniform. So I stands there all morning and about 10 o'clock the doc came out. I blew the whistle—Baldwin thought I was calling a cab but my partner knew it was a signal, so Deems come and he began to tail the doc. Pretty soon I see Deems bringing the doc back and I asks him where he went.

DETECTIVE REPRIMANDED

"Well, he has a pretty funny story to tell. The doc went to the corner and got in a cab and Deems in another cab right after him. They drove across town, through the transverse under Central Park and over to West End avenue to an apartment house on the corner of Seventy-second street. But Baldwin didn't go in. He got out of the cab and meets a man, a little dark-complexioned fellow. The man gave him a box and the doc gave him some money. Then he gets back into the cab and drives back to the corner of Third avenue, where he gets out of the cab and walks over here."

"You can get out of that uniform now," said Colt when the detective came to a full pause.

Marshall clicked his heels together.

"Don't you need me any further, chief?"

"Need you any further? You made a mess of your job, Marshall. If you had stuck with Deems, one of you could have followed the little dark man and the other kept after Baldwin. You both should be demoted to patrolmen and sent to Staten Island for this. Now get out of that uniform and report back at your station house. No wonder the newspapers say the police don't know their business."

CALLS INSPECTOR

When the crestfallen Marshall had left the apartment Colt went to the telephone and called Plaza 3-73625, the apartment of Lola Carewe. While he was waiting, he remarked to me that the small dark man was undoubtedly the Spanish dealer who had sold Baldwin the insects. A moment later he was talking to Inspector Flynn, who had told Colt he would meet him there.

In a few brisk sentences Colt broke the news to the Inspector. Even though I was unable to listen in, I could hear the grunt of surprise from the Assistant Chief Inspector when he learned of the third tragedy. He promised to put a call through to headquarters at once for Multooler and the other departmental agencies. But to this Colt demurred.

"Get Multooler," he sanctioned, "but keep the rest away for a while—until we know what we are looking for."

"Okay, chief. Do you want me down there?"

Colt reflected for a moment and then delayed his answer as he asked: "Is Mrs. Carewe awake?"

"Not yet."

"You are sure she is perfectly all right?"

"Sleeping sound as a dollar, sir, so are they all, the maid and the butler, each in a separate room, snoring in a different key."

EXAMINES OFFICE

Colt's brows were still furrowed.

"It sounds silly, I suppose," he reflected aloud, "but I am afraid to let you out of that house, Flynn. We've had three sudden deaths since we came into this case—we've got to see that Mrs. Carewe is protected."

"I'll stick on the job until I hear from you."

"All right."

As he hung up the receiver Colt turned again to the private office where lay the body of Dr. Baldwin. Then he began his slow, meticulous search. At first glance he found nothing extraordinary. The office was like the ordinal consultation room of any successful physician in a modern building. There was neither taste nor distinction in its equipment. It was all as utilitarian and efficient as any unimaginative office supply firm could make it, with sectional bookcases, steel waste basket and a steel desk.

The only incongruous note in all the dull twentieth century stream-line atmosphere of the place was the distorted question mark of a body twisted and dead on the floor.

What had happened to Baldwin? The manner of his taking off would not give me any rest. Again and again the riddle broke across my mind like dark waves spilling on a beach.

PUZZLING QUESTIONS

Marshall had said that Dr. Baldwin was alone in the office when the detective playing drunk had walked in. In spite of his faults Marshall was a faithful and accurate observer, yet even with faithful and accurate observation could we believe his report? Had not Colt himself faithfully and accurately observed all the possible hiding-places in Lola's pent-house? Yet with guards at all the entrances Death had got by unseen, had swept through unnoticed and left its beautiful victims contorted on the floor. And the agent, the instrumentality of Death, had got away, too, under the noses of all of our observation and accuracy. Only in Baldwin's case had we found the dead scorpion. Was it not possible then that unknown to Marshall and unknown to Dr. Baldwin someone had hidden in these rooms also waiting to turn Death loose—loose out of its box, out of that container which Colt had said must have been used?

Or was it the box which the small dark man had given to Baldwin? Had it concealed the scorpion? Had Baldwin been the victim of an accident or of a trick? Or had he deliberately set it loose?

These and a dozen other questions filled my mind as I watched Thatcher Colt begin his investigation into the third death of this baffling series. Perhaps the same questions filled the chief's mind too, but if so he did not at that time act upon them. His interests were following a different path altogether—some unknown path the chart to which he kept to himself. I stood my back against the closed door while Thatcher Colt knelt again beside the body.

First he began a deliberate search of the pockets. The doctor was still in his dinner jacket and only a hasty search was necessary. As a result Thatcher Colt turned over to me a silver cigaret case engraved with the initials "H

Synopsis

Lola Carewe and her guest Christine Quires, are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Gus Everett, the last person to see Christine alive. Lola had blackmailed Everett. He however, claims that Christine discovered a plot to kill Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk, named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. After robbing a bank to buy her a ruby, Basil disappeared. His parents sold medical laboratory specimens. Edward Quires, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. He had stated heart failure caused the deaths. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead—from a scorpion bite. Mrs. Baldwin reveals that she knew her husband was involved with Lola.

Now Go On

I took charge of all of this miscellany with the exception of the set of keys, which Colt examined with curiosity. Most of them were not difficult to identify—keys for the ignition and door of an automobile, keys to a safety deposit box, a flat brass key evidently to the front door of an apartment and larger ones of the same pattern which Colt demonstrated belonged to the office. There remained one key which Colt isolated from the others and held aloft between his thumb and forefinger, studying the irregular pattern of its shank with intensified interest. A grim smile fluttered over his strong lips and vanished, as he said:

"I'll keep this myself. Tons. You can have it later."

Then thrusting the ring jinglingly into his own pocket, he resumed his search, beginning methodically with the top of the desk and working down the right-hand stack of drawers and up the left.

Here again we started on what seemed a dreary unpromising search. With that worship of the fashion so characteristic of business and professional Americans, the top of Dr. Baldwin's desk was scrupulously bare. All the tools for using a desk were there—pen and ink-well, prescription pad and blotter, but that was all. The desk's vast expanse of leather over steel stretched away from the empty chair like a desert.

In the top drawer at the right there was the same neatness. A drinking glass, a towel, a piece of soap in a box and a supply of clean handkerchiefs. The second drawer was entirely empty. The third was a much deeper drawer, with a false front that would make one believe there were two instead of one. It contained three unopened boxes of cigars, no doubt Christmas presents from grateful patients.

As I made an inventory in my note book I asked myself if anything less personal could be imagined. A man's desk is his most intimate article of furniture, closer to him than a cradle to a baby. Yet Dr. Baldwin had seemed to leave not the slightest trace of his individuality upon his magnificent desk.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

The Chinese Urges Extra Precautions.

Catherine's quiet query, "Have you any more questions to ask him?" effectually stopped me from asking her what the wounded Chinese meant by his comment that she "guessed" now what he meant by "bird in tree tell me" but had not "guessed" the night before. I could only conjecture that the man was speaking in parables, using the time-worn figure of speech which both Oriental and Occidental mothers employ in making their children believe them to have omnipotent knowledge of juvenile transgressions.

"Lee Chow and Mai Grantland are both safe and well?" I asked.

"Both well now," he answered. "Plitty safe never all safe never can be all safe too many bad mans watch for them. But plitty safe now."

For the first time since Jack Leslie's reappearance and Hugh's silence had made me believe that my old friend must be dead, I felt the loan of his loss lift from my heart. The plaint "never all safe" from the lips of the wounded man was not news to me and therefore I was not affected by it, except as a fresh reminder of the danger under which I knew the two men always were, and which I suspected was meat and drink to both of them consumed with zestful appetite.

"Once more," I said aside to Katherine and then turned back to the man in the bed.

"You said," I began slowly, "that we should see Lee Chow and Major Grantland very soon. Do you mean today or tomorrow?"

MESSAGE FOR LEE CHOW

"Not today," he said at last, "no tomorrow. Maybe three day, maybe week. They have much work, much trouble before they dare come here. No want make more trouble for you. Want stop trouble you have now."

"Thank you," I said and was conscious of a lump in my throat as I spoke the words. How many times had I received similar assurance of Hugh Grantland's unfailing care for me! How many times had his time, his resourcefulness, his wealth, even his life itself been spilled like water in protecting me from danger?

I turned to Katherine again. "That's all for me," I said, "does he want anything more of me?"

She moved past me and spoke to the sick man.

"Is there anything else you wish to say to Mrs. Graham," she asked.

"Yes," the monosyllable was curt, and decided, but he waited for several seconds before he spoke again.

"Lee Chow say something to you," he said at last. "You listen?"

"Yes, indeed. Tell me what he said."

"He say" his eyes held mine steadily. "He say you not worry any more everything all lite when he get here. But he say very careful for two, maybe three days, maybe week, till he and fiend get here. After that, everything all lite."

TO BE CAREFUL

He paused, then spoke again, this time insistently.

"You plomise be careful, make lill' boys careful?"

"Yes, indeed, we shall all be very careful, thank you."

"All lite, me go sleep now," he said, and shut his eyes with the effect of emphatically closing a door.

I looked at Katherine and she gestured me toward the door.

"He'll be all right alone for a minute or two," she said, and I want to have you get the low down about that 'bird in the tree' business. I haven't time to tell you either that or anything else. But get hold of Harry and ask him to spill you the dope. He was here when it happened, and was quite impressed. Where is he now?"

"He took Lillian to the station," I said.

"Oh! yes, I know. You're going to pinch hit for her as 'errand girl' while she's gone. But there's no need of you wearing yourself out. The poor fellow is really on the way to recovery, I think, and things are easing up for me."

"I'm very glad to hear it," I told her demurely, "but please expend a little of your sympathy and solicitude upon yourself. You need it and I don't."

"What's that you need?" Harry Underwood said, suddenly appearing in the living room door.

Speech with you, and that speedily," I said.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

When all the youngsters who are members of the Enright chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club attend the regular meeting this Saturday they will be greeted by a new manager.

Frank Roberts

Frank E. Roberts, who almost three years ago made his first appearance at the Enright as the organist, later to become the manager, has just been notified by John H. Harris, district manager of the Warner theaters, that he has been appointed managing supervisor of the Liberty and Ritz Theaters, New Kensington, Pa.

"Frank," as he is affectionately known to the many hundreds of youngsters members of his chapter, leaves today to assume his new duties, but will be back to introduce William Zeiler, the new manager to all the members of the Enright chapter.

Mr. Roberts, speaking about the new appointment, said:

"I have made some very wonderful friends here in East Liberty, especially with my little kiddies and it's going to be a sad day Saturday when I bid them all goodbye. However, in 'Bill' Zeiler they will find a chap that will enter into the spirit of the club just as much as I have, and I hope that the next time I see 'Bill' he'll be able to tell me that the attendance has not only kept up, but under his able direction it has increased."

WISH HIM LUCK

We are sure that not only the secretary, but that all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, wishes Frank E. Roberts the best of luck and continued success in his new position. So long, Frank, you'll be missed.

Now just a little about the show Sunday at the Stanley. The boys and girls who are eligible to attend this show will meet at the Sun-Telegraph Building at 1:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon. When you arrive at the Sun-Telegraph, go immediately to the place designated for your chapter. You will notice signs with the names of the various chapters prominently displayed. Report to the man in charge of your chapter and remain with him. Then when you get to the Stanley Theater you will be with the boys and girls of your own neighborhood.

The show, which will start promptly at 2:15, will last until 5 p. m. If you are going to have someone meet you after the show, explain to them that you will be out of the Stanley Theater at 5 p. m.

Country Demands That Congress Promptly Pass Prosperity Bond Issue

The responsible leadership of the country, in and out of public office, is gradually becoming aroused to the need of prompt action by Congress toward relieving unemployment.

Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the United States Senate, again brings the necessity for accelerating public works before the attention of the country in urging a $2,000,000,000 federal bond issue.

Two billions of dollars is not enough. At least five billion dollars is needed. But Senator Robinson's advocacy of the principle lends impetus to the nation wide movement demanding CONSTRUCTIVE, PROMPT and COURAGEOUS ACTION by the federal government.

More and more business executives are coming to recognize the necessity for a prosperity loan, which has long been advocated by scientific economists.

Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, in commenting on the proposal for a federal bond issue to finance job creating public construction, declared:

"If accompanied by a balanced budget and a simultaneous tax to take care of interest and amortization, it is necessary, sound and will be effective."

In the light of such expert testimony, how long is Congress going to delay, when the country needs most of all speedy action?

There can be no effective substitute, in a program of economic rehabilitation, for a plan to re-employ idle workers.

Congress should forthwith check the current adverse economic trend by authorizing a substantial program of useful spending on needed public projects.

The time is ripe for DOING, not for further tedious TALKING.

It Was Worth While

But the "Family-Help-Family" Campaign Clearly Shows the Need of Government Aid.

The objective of the "Family-Help-Family" campaign was to provide for the support of 28,000 destitute families in Allegheny County for three months at the rate of $100 a family.

The final reports of the campaign workers show that 5,439 families were cared for by the contributions.

Though it fell far short of its objective, the campaign was well worth while. The drain on public funds was lessened as a result of this effort, and small property owners who are fighting desperately to save their homes from confiscation for nonpayment of taxes were benefited correspondingly.

Honor to the contributors to the campaign! Honor to Senator Frank J. Harris, its sponsor!

There is a lesson in the failure of the workers to reach their objective. It shows clearly the need for government aid. The state must come to the rescue of Allegheny County's unemployed.

The United States must come to the rescue not only of the unemployed but of all others who are suffering from the business recession. It can aid by embarking on a great program of public works, to be financed with the proposed $5,000,000,000 prosperity bond issue.

The people can help to force action by writing to members of the Senate and House of Representatives, and by having their trade, civic, patriotic, fraternal, religious and social organizations address memorials and petitions to Congress, urging immediate adoption of the $5,000,000,000 prosperity bond plan.

Abuse of Authority

A Summons Is Ordinarily All That Is Necessary for a Petty Violation of the Motor Regulations.

An Aspinwall constable arrested a motorist late at night a few days ago on the charge of parking without lights. The father of the motorist was Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, and when he was called from his home at 3 o'clock in the morning to go to the office of a justice of the peace in Aspinwall to procure the release of his son he expressed righteous indignation.

Judge Stadtfeld was not exaggerating a bit when he declared it was an outrage to arrest a motorist for a petty violation of the motor regulations at such an hour, when a mere summons to answer for the alleged offense would have sufficed.

Pennsylvania has suffered much from abuse of authority by justices of the peace and constables who find in the costs they collect for petty violations of the automobile laws a lucrative source of revenue. There was a "fining squire" in the eastern part of the state a few years ago who made a fortune by mulcting autoists. He had his constables out at all hours, watching the roads in and out of his bailiwick, for technical offenses that might bring in a few dollars.

If a motorist's license plates happened to be covered with dust or spattered with mud, if he exceeded the speed limit, then 20 miles an hour, or did any of a hundred other things that motorists ordinarily do, he was sure to be arrested and fined.

The squire finally over-reached himself by refusing to permit one of his victims to waive a hearing and let his case go to the higher court. The result was that the squire was himself convicted of malfeasance and sent to the penitentiary.

That was a blow to the "fining" business; but comment that has been made in connection with the Aspinwall affair indicates that a new warning to over-zealous petty magistrates is again in order.

The Minor Judiciary Association might well give the subject its attention.

What to Do? What to Do?

Local, State and national governments cost every man in the country SIXTY-ONE DAYS' PAY out of the year.

Before the war governmental expenditures totaled $2,900,000,000. Last year they reached a total of $14,000,000,000.

Mr. Taxpaver has come to the conclusion that it is about time to call a halt on waste, extravagance, over-lapping bureaus, unnecessary departments, costly duplication of effort.

Hoover on Lobbyists And Co-operation

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The President is reported in administration papers as fearful that the party organization and press have overdone his "leadership" in the campaign speech, prepared as such, and addressed to Congress. The party press certainly was hysterical enough about it. And a bit stupid, too, in assuming that the attack was aimed, not at Congress as a whole, but at the Democrats alone. Stupid, in that neither the President's "leadership" nor that of Mr. Snell in the House was able to prevent a vast bloc of Republicans from repudiating their leaders. And stupid, in that so many Democrats in the House followed their leaders. Stupid, and as unfair as the campaign tactics of 1928.

The hysterical outburst of the administration press is easy for the psychologist to explain. There has been so little occasion for shouting. When an opportunity is created the shouting is apt to be a bit raucous. This psychological reaction to painful realities has been manifested, too, in the House through the session. Democrats have cheered Democratic speakers, but at the conclusion of Republican speeches the entire Republican side of the House has sprung to its feet and shouted.

But the political capitalization of the President's campaign speech has been overdone, and we are not unprepared for his second thought on the matter.

Holds Olive Branch Out to Congress

In a message to the American people the President holds forth an olive branch to Congress. He diverts his criticism from that body to another, with which we have been very familiar ever since his inauguration. This criticism is well aimed—and this is what it says:

"It is an issue between the people and the locust swarm of lobbyists who haunt the halls of Congress seeking selfish privilege for special groups and sections of the country, misleading members as to the real views of the people by showers of propaganda."

We can heartily subscribe to any attack upon these highly organized, and, sometimes, highly financed lobbies. But we can recall a time when this protest of the President would have been of enormous benefit to the people and possibly have saved our foreign trade from the wreckage, which has cost us billions.

When the intolerable Smoot-Hawley tariff bill popularly known as the Grundy tariff in recognition of the part played by that incomparable lobbyist in forcing it upon a reluctant Congress, over the protest of the major part of the people, was up, a great public service would have been rendered had Mr. Hoover in a message to the people have said:

"It is an issue between the people and the locust swarm of lobbyists who haunt the halls of Congress."

But unhappily for American industry and trade, the President at that time was aligned in sympathy on the side of the "locust swarm of lobbyists."

Hoover Hits Only At Certain Lobbyists

The gospel truth is that the President is not aiming his shafts at lobbyists—but at certain lobbyists. As in the case of trusts, the administration has its "rule of reason" and divides lobbyists into the good and the bad. The Grundy lobbyists, who have wrecked our foreign markets, were good; and so is the lobby of the Anti-Saloon League — which is, perhaps, the most militant and aggressive of them all.

Will He Accept Good Suggestions?

It would be ungracious and unfair to find fault with the President's sudden flare for "leadership," even though it takes the form of criticism and attack, rather than of constructive recommendations. Now that "leadership" is on tap, perhaps a constructive suggestion from the groundlings would not be ungraciously received.

One problem—for there are many more—is the balancing of the budget. Speaker Garner made by far the most impressive plea for that. But the balancing of the budget means the levying of extraordinary taxes at a time when the people can least afford to bear an added burden. Even so, the budget must be balanced. The problem lies in the fixing of the burden—and the Senate is about to have its fling at that.

It would be real leadership were the President to send another message to the Congress calling attention to the notorious failure of the "noble experiment," announcing his own change of heart, and recommending a measure permitting light wines and beer—and taxes on the traffic.

That would lift an enormous burden from lawful business enterprise and small individual incomes and transfer it to the most lucrative business, though now an outlaw, in America today.

And since the President is preparing to run on a referendum platform and make his party's campaign as a wet in New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, it would be convincing proof of the actuality of his conversion.

Tests President's Own Co-Operation

And one more friendly suggestion, apropos of the President's message to the people: He complains of the lack of co-operation—evidently hitting again at Congress. Just at this moment his own capacity for co-operation is put to the test. There isn't an intelligent economist, businessman or financier who does not know that prosperity depends upon the restoration of our foreign trade, wrecked by the Grundy tariff, put over by a "locust swarm of lobbyists," over the protest of the major part of the people.

Thus the Democratic House has passed a tariff act calling upon the President to initiate an international economic conference and to enter into negotiations with other nations to remove these insurmountable barriers against trade. The Senate has passed the bill. Congress has done its part.

In other words, Congress has co-operated with the people on that vital matter, and we shall now see whether Mr. Hoover, who preaches co-operation, will co-operate with Congress to that end.

If he refuses to co-operate with Congress, which responded to the most enlightened economic judgment of the nation, we shall not be much impressed with the President's further pleas for co-operation.

Nation's Deficit Is Hoover Deficit

And all the while, as these campaign speeches and messages from both sides increase in number, and the ballyhoo of the partisan press on both sides begins, it is just as well to remember whose deficit this is that is causing all the trouble.

It is the Hoover deficit—the deficit of the Hoover administration, created at a time when every branch of the government was in possession of the President's party.

And meanwhile, too, it is just as well to remember, despite the ballyhoo of the partisan press, that the revolts in Congress have not been the revolts of one party, but the revolts of both; that Mr. Hoover and Mr. Snell were no more successful in controlling their men than were Mr. Rainey and Mr. Crisp; and that the most conspicuous revolts against administration plans were led by a Republican.

This Married Life

If a man and wife still love each other after he has taught her to drive a car and to play a good game of bridge, it is a sign that they were mated in Heaven.

Real love is not the tender passion which survives in spite of endless years of separation, but the kind that survives through 52 long Sundays of propinquity and scrapping over the radio.

Everything is being invented to deaden woman's domestic instinct. Better biscuits than those "Mother used to make" now come in cans—but it still takes a few grains of commonsense to stick them in the oven and bake them.

* * *

One reason why girls are not in such a hurry to marry, nowadays, is because that old-fashioned delusion that a woman can hold a man by TYING him to her, is gradually being dissipated.

A man no longer gives his heart to a woman; he merely lends it to her, like a library book, with the clear understanding that she will return it in good condition in a week or so.

Many a woman has attained distinction in a career by taking a few lessons in singing or painting, and then "giving it all up" to marry a man and reminding him of her "sacrifice" forever afterward.

A man's weakest moment is when he is feeling sorry for himself, almost any woman can marry a man when he is trying to forget "the woman before."

The Rhyming Optimist

Song of Rest

After the day, the twilight,
Shadows that swiftly throng.
After the tempest, calmness:
Silence after the song.

After the hours of toiling,
Conquering stubborn earth,
Rest with the well-beloved,
Music and food and mirth.

After the frantic pulses
Hammering with desire,
Peace for a little season,
After fierce passion's fire,

After the long swim, breasting
Force of the tide that raves,
Floating at ease, and drifting
Buoyed by the singing waves.

After the empty laughter,
Safe in a tranquil harbor,
Sea-wind and stars—and you!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 12.—Hubbub around the ferries during the morning and evening rush is a cross-section of metropolitan life churned to a furious froth. Each boat in the morning brings a staggering load, pressing at sluice gates, to be immediately swallowed by the city.

At evening the boats bite off their chunks in the manner of the steam shovels, and carry them off to Jersey and Staten Island shores. They are the so-called "respectable middle class"—the sort who buy homes with gardens and without whom, a great statesman panegyrized, "no nation can endure."

Seventy per cent are potential home owners. Ambitions are consecrated to reducing the mortgage. Thus they attain a commendable thrift the city dweller rarely achieves. Saturday afternoons and evenings they remain in town to shop, see the movies or play. It is the day they fill Broadway.

In innumerable instances wives and husband work until babies arrive. If places of business are near they may lunch together, but generally they meet at the ferry with pecking kisses and a pronounced eagerness to quit the city and its confusions.

The ferry is after all the most agreeable of New York's transportation. Passengers ride smoothly in a scour of fresh breeze, tangy with the salt of the sea. A worbegone orchestra furnishes its folio of last years' tunes. Horatio Alger bootblacks offer their brisk nickel shines.

On foggy days there is the adventure of "being lost," but the list of accidents is astonishingly small. Now and then there is the thrill of being awash some liner nosing gently out to the deep. And always flung high in lacey dazzle is the wondrous sky line.

Tommy Millard, popping over from Shanghai every whip-stitch, invariably has a surprise for those of us clinging so tenuously to simplicity in dress. What dirty dog threw that? One I recall was an autumnal brown derby of beaver in contrast to his dove-colored iron hat. At the moment he is reported en route with light tan gloves ribbed in bright purple. Deep blue collared shirts and snow white spats complete the sartorial synthesis. Lou Holz, incidentally, featured a Prussian blue in shirts touched up with a canary yellow four-in-hand this spring.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Where do we go when we die?

What happens when we lose our bodies?

Do we go anywhere? Does anything happen? Or do we just stop?

Is death the end? Or do we go on living without our bodies, just as well, perhaps better, than when we had them?

Spooky questions? Not at all. Simple and sensible questions.

It's quite as natural to think about life after death as it is to think of life in New York or Timbuctoo; and many say that it is just as reasonable to believe that we go on living after we have passed the grave, as to believe that we go on living after we have crossed the Atlantic.

What is life, anyhow? Nobody knows. For lack of a better understanding, we say that life is energy.

Where do we find energy? We find it in many places; in the bodies of men and animals, and plants.

What does it do in those bodies? It makes those bodies eat, and sleep, and breathe, and grow.

Life—energy—does these things in moving bodies. The bodies themselves are not energy. They are simple masses of mineral and fat and water. But the energy lives inside those masses and works through them.

Not always, though. Life—energy—does not always need a body to live in.

The energy that lights your electric light does not need a body to exist. It exists without a bulb, though you only see it in that lighted bulb.

The energy that speaks to you from your radio does not need that radio to exist. It exists without wires, without box, though you only hear it when you turn the dials.

Every day we see energy working without a body.

Now consider yourself. You are a certain person with an individual personality, called Bill Jones or Bessie Brown.

What does that really mean? That means that you are a certain arrangement of energy inhabiting a certain body.

The energy in you is very valuable, probably much more valuable than the energy in a turnip or a toad. At least, you and I think so. It has taken a long time for life to develop into the particular form of energy which makes men think and feel, love and hate, desire and fear. It has taken life a long time to make itself into you, Bill Jones; or you, Bessie Brown.

And now, having taken millions of years in the making, are you suddenly going to stop? Will all that rare accumulation cease when the box which holds it breaks?

Or will you be able to go without a body? Other forms of energy exist without a body! Light and electricity and magnetism exist without bodies.

Will that most precious and most powerful form of energy—the human soul—be lost for lack of a body, while a tinkling jazz song goes on?

Think about that. Every time you see an electric light, or turn on a radio dial, think about the light in you; the song in you, the light and the song in those you have loved and lost.

Are they really lost?

Once Overs

Are you the sort of employe who appears to honor and respect the superior when he is about, but denounce him when he is absent?

Are you prone to make the most deprecating remarks about him when in conversation with other employes?

Do you try to impress them with the fact that he is a driver, that he is incapable of filling the place he holds and that he retains his job because of a pull somewhere?

Do you try to convince others that the boss imposes on them?

Instead of increasing your own speed do you try to influence others to drop down to your tempo?

Do you often turn your work over to others to lessen your efforts?
